TO SELL TEXTILE PLANT
IN NO. CHELMSFORD

Announcements were made today by public advertisements and catalogue circularizing by mail that the entire plant and equipment of the Lowell Textile company of North Chelmsford, will be held on Tuesday, October 10, at 10.30 a. m., to the highest bona fide bidders at absolute auction sale, free from all encumbrances, J. E. Conant and Co. are the auctioneers.

The auction sale disposal plan was approved sometime ago. On Sept. 6, last, O. E. King, for the bankruptcy trustees of the concern, notified the auction company that he would authorize it to proceed at once with the sale at public auction to the highest bidder or bidders all of the property, real and personal of said estate.

The textile plant is a late type manufacturing property. The reality with its set of brick buildings, erected new in 1916, comprising the main building, two stories and basement, 210 feet long by 125 feet wide. The annex is 126 ft. long and 51 feet wide. There is a brick engine-room building and a 300-h. p. steam plant.

A spur track runs in from the main railroad line. There is plenty of soft water without cost piped into the buildings and suitable for dyeing and bleaching and for boiler and other domestic uses.

A complete instalment of carding, spinning, weaving and bleaching machinery, with other correlative equipment, will be sold in lots to suit the purchaser.

Whipping posts and stools of replacement used to stand in every town in England.

The British civil service now costs England six times as much as it did before the war.

ETHEL BARRYMORE
AT BEST

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Ethel Barrymore does the greatest work of her career in "Rose Bernd." But to watch her in that is like looking upon a giant seeking comfort in a pigmy's house. Every time she gives full play to her emotional strength something in the structure of the play breaks.

Ludwig Lewinsohn translated Gorkh Hauptmann's play for its first presentation in New York.

First Woman Radio Broadcaster

By NEA Service
VINTON, Ia., Oct. 2.—Hello, hello, hello—this is radio broadcasting station WIAE, Vinton, Ia.

That's the way Mrs. Robert E. Zimmerman, believed to be the first woman radio broadcaster in the United States, starts her program, which have been heard as far as Brunswick, Ga., on the south, and Honesoye, N. Y., on the east. Women have invaded men's fields in many things, but Mrs. Zimmerman is believed to be the first to show the rest of them what a woman can do in radio.

She is not a professional electrician, to answer the skeptic's first question. She never attended a technical school and is strictly an amateur as far as her experiments and the construction and operation of her radio station are concerned.

She recalls the subject, she is an enthusiast, she admits that she accepts advice (on this subject only) from her husband, who is city electrician of Vinton, and judging from the numerous replies she has received from those who have heard station WIAE, she is one of the most successful broadcasters in the middle west.

Hubby's Brother a "Bug"

Mrs. Zimmerman explains her interest in radio as due to a visit from Mr. Zimmerman's brother, Carroll E. Zimmerman, or Taylorville, Ill., in 1920.

"He had been a radio bug for several years then and he got me so interested that we went to work on a set, resulting in an equipment that is now used by many radio receivers. It was a type 2 vacuum-tube and transformer. Then later, hearing phone stations, I thought it would be amusing for both the listeners-in and myself if I owned a broadcasting station.

"The first one I used was a 10-watt transmitter. This one did not give very good satisfaction so when I was on my vacation in Illinois this summer I purchased a Du Forest O. T. 3 radio-phonograph, which has given good results. Then the maintenance man at my station, who is my husband, conceived the idea of enlarging this set. We started to work on it and are now testing on a 55-watt transmitter which is proving even better.

Entertains the Kiddies

In addition to the broadcasting apparatus, Mrs. Zimmerman has a recording set consisting of a Westinghouse reconstructed set with four-stage amplifier and a magnavox.

Mrs. Zimmerman has been broadcasting since June and in that time WIAE has been heard in New York, Illinois, Missouri, Georgia, Ohio and, of course, all over Iowa.

The broadcasting station is in a separate building, designed, constructed and equipped for the purpose with operating room, power room and studio, the latter equipped with a piano and a phonograph and designed to insure the correct acoustics.

Programs are broadcasted every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 9

MILK FARMERS WILL MEET NOVEMBER 9

Although the autumn price of milk delivered to customers in Lowell and vicinity has practically been agreed upon as announced in The Sun last week, there are questions of vital importance coming before New England producers that must be settled to the satisfaction of all of the great interests controlling the tremendous industry that promotes the health of mankind.

The Sun is informed that the sixth annual convention of the National Milk Producers' Federation will be held in Springfield, Nov. 9 and 10. Charles W.

Holman, executive secretary, states that this meeting promises to be the "banner meeting in the history of the federation."

"It is the first time," he says, "that the federation has held a public meeting in the east, although for several years the New England Milk Producers' association, our member in this part of the country, has been anxious to have the national leaders meet with them. A program of vital interest, both to the producers and consumers, is being prepared."

Among the subjects to be considered are: ways and means of cutting the cost of milk distribution; wider markets for milk products; transportation questions, such as the motor truck versus the railway in hauling milk; the effect of the tariff on the dairy industry; the campaign to rid the country of "filled" milk. This latter will be one of the live features of the convention discussion, it is predicted.

"Filled" milk is also termed for trade purposes "oleated" milk. In the middle western sections of the country, the farmers have been fighting attempts to push the sale of so-called "filled" milk, which is offered in the shape of a milk substitute, claimed to have all the virtues of pure milk at less cost. No campaign in the agricultural district has been hotter than the one conducted by the dairy interests against the manufacturers of the "filled" milk and the battle has now been carried to Washington for final decision on the pros and cons of this vital question which is said to threaten the pure milk industry of many sections of the land.

At the Springfield convention, which will find representatives of the milk industry from in and about Lowell attending at least one day's session, the Volst bill, which passed the national house and is now pending in the senate, will be discussed. Plans will also be set in motion for the passage of uniform state laws in every important dairy and industrial section to protect the public from the alleged menace of the "filled" milks and other milk substitutes.

A matter of particular interest to

New England and the milk-producing industry right around Lowell and the country districts will be the sessions of the producers devoted to pooling. Within the past years co-operative milk marketing has undergone a notable evolution. Several of the most important milk producers' associations have completely reorganized themselves on the basis of pooling the price received by farmers for their milk. Under the pooling plan, every farmer will receive the same price for his milk as every other farmer within a given district, subject only to differentials such as distance from town, grade and country.

The National federation came into being out of a distinct need of the scattered marketing associations having some common medium for keeping in touch with each other. It was initiated at the fourth conference on marketing and farm credits, held in Chicago, in 1916, and was incorporated in 1917.

The federation is not an exclusive institution; the door to membership has always been open to bonafide, co-operative milk marketing associations who are willing to comply with the by-laws and pay the dues assessed them.

The officers and directors of the federation are: Milo D. Campbell, Coldwater, Mich., president; W. F. Schill, Ing, first vice-president; H. W. Inger-sol, second vice-president; F. D. Williams, "Treasurer; George Brown, secretary; Charles W. Holman, executive secretary.

The federation is the largest overhead organization of co-operative associations in the United States. Its members, comprising 200,000 farm families, have an aggregate turnover of approximately $300,000,000 of milk annually.

DEMONSTRATION GREETTS TURK CAVALRY AS IT ENTERS SMYRNA

Are Routed by Greek Forces

the Dardanelles, the conference has been set for tomorrow at Mudania, on the Sea of Marmora.

Should the meeting be successful, as seems likely, a peace conference may be summoned by the middle of the present month. The Turks desire speedy action, declaring in their reply to the allied joint note that "it is indispensable that Thrace, to the west of the Maritza river, with Adrianople (that is, Eastern Thrace, from the Black Sea to a line west of the Maritza) be evacuated immediately and restored to the government of Turkey."

Papers Praise Harrington

The question of the Kemalists' violations of the neutral zones of the straits against the express effects of the British commander-in-chief, is expected to be discussed at the conference. Harrington and Ismet Pasha before the actual conference begins tomorrow.

The belief is expressed that if the Turks can be satisfied at tomorrow's meeting regarding the safety of the coasts, peace may be looked for.

The bulk of the press opinion is that Gen. Harrington has saved Great Britain from war thus far and there are many eulogisms of his tact and skill. The hope being added that he will be left a free hand to deal with the situation until it is settled.

PALL OF PESTILENCE HANGS OVER SMYRNA

SMYRNA, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press) Rear Admiral Charles E. Clark, commander of the American naval squadron in Turkish waters, is striving through the commanders of the American destroyers here to induce Mustapha Kemal Pasha to extend the time limit for the evacuation of the refugees from Smyrna, but thus far without success.

To date, 300,000 persons have been evacuated, but a large number still remain. A pall of pestilence hangs over the city, which is rapidly becoming uninhabitable. The American sailors are continuing their splendid efforts for the relief of the sufferers. Twelve Greek ships under the protection of the American flag left yesterday with thousands of refugees for Italy, and other islands off Smyrna coast.

FRANCE BELIEVES WORST IS OVER

PARIS, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press) French hopes for the peaceful settlement of the Near Eastern crisis are centered upon the Mudania conference. While the government believes the worst is over, there is no desire to be too optimistic pending the termination of the two main issues by the generals in consultation—namely, the evacuation of Eastern Thrace by the Greeks and the neutral zones by the Turkish forces.

The French representative at Mudania is expected to support the Turkish proposal for the evacuation of the neutral zones in return for the immediate evacuation of Eastern Thrace, as the Greeks. The fear is expressed, however, that Great Britain will not consent to such a plan, especially at a conference at which there is no provision for Greek representation.

Further danger to the success of the conference is seen in the firm decision of the British not to retire from Cilicia, and should the Turks make this retirement one of their conditions, it is foreseen that an agreement might be impossible. Approval of the Turkish proposal, it is pointed out, would be a substantial concession to the Kemalists as the allied powers in their note made the neutrality of the zones of the straits one of their chief conditions and only promised to "use

BOULLON RETURNS TO CONSTANTINOPLE

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press) M. Franklin Bouillon, peace envoy from Athens to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, returned yesterday to Constantinople from Smyrna.

He conferred for several hours with Gen. Pasha, French high commissioner in Constantinople, and is understood to have told him that only the most extraordinary efforts on his part prevented Kemal from acting harshly. He made it clear to the nationalist leader that if war were renewed in the Near East, it might spread to the whole of Europe, and that the responsibility would rest entirely on Kemal.

Gen. Pasha's reaction to the news was one of surprise and disappointment. He admitted that this step was the only thing which could have saved Mustapha Kemal Pasha's hand. It is pointed to as another evidence of England's extraordinary patience and earnest desire to avoid war.

Up to the time of the issuance of Brig. Gen. Harrington's tempering note, Saturday night, the situation looked exceedingly critical. It is now conceded that his tact and tactfulness, coupled with the timely arrival of reinforcements from England, prevented the Turks from striking at Chianak.

New difficulties await the British at the Mudania conference. It is known that the Kemalists will insist upon the British withdrawal from the Asiatic shores of the Dardanelles and the immediate evacuation of Thrace by the Greeks.

They will probably also demand the right to cross the straits to pursue the Greeks as well as guarantees against the use of Turkish waters by Greek warships and transport.

It is expected the conference may drag for several days, as the Kemalists doubtless will bargain and haggle over every point.

The British declare they will insist upon occupying the Asiatic banks of the straits area at the port of Chianak of the conference. They may also contest the immediate withdrawal of the Greeks from Thrace, making this conditional upon acceptance of the allied peace proposals. The inalienability of the straits will be stoutly defended.

AMERICANS SAY SITUATION CHAOTIC

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—American relief workers in Athens have sent the following telegram to the headquarters of their organizations here:

"The Smyrna situation is chaotic and impossible to organize. The misery is inconceivable, the death rate is increasing and thousands of additional refugees are arriving. About 25,000 refugees are at Piræus and more are expected. The American committee is caring for thousands of mothers and babies. A local newspaper is raising a million drachmas fund."

Refuge Portfolios

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Mm. Politis and Dromedakis have refused the portfolios of foreign minister and finance minister in the new Greek cabinet, according to an Athens despatch to the Havas agency. They are declared to have given as their reason the desire that the new ministry be without any pronounced party tendency.

K. of C. CARNIVAL

An enthusiastic meeting of those interested in the formation of the Santa Maria table of the K. of C. carnival was held in St. Michael's Guild rooms yesterday. Plans were discussed for aiding in the undertaking and various suggestions made by the members. The committee have decided to hold a dance at the Grange next Friday evening and it is very probable that a baseball game will be staged on Columbus day between two of the leading teams of the city. In the absence of Mr. George F. Keefe, head of the committee in that district, Mr. John B. Hart presided and many details were discussed. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening in the Guild rooms.

FACED FOUR VIOLATIONS

Autoist Was in Bad in District Court—Liquor and Other Cases

Fred D. J. Morel faced four violations, three of them for motor vehicle laws, when he appeared before Judge Thomas J. Enright in district court this morning. He was intended to try all four complaints together, but as two of them took so much time the others were put over until October 9. While the judge reserved his decisions on the cases heard this morning until Saturday.

The four charges were: Operating an auto so as to endanger the lives of the public, operating without registration in possession, drunkenness and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

It was on the first two charges that Morel was tried this morning. Officer Daniel Lynch of the mounted squad, testified that he saw Morel on October 1, at about 10:30 p. m., driving a car on Merrimack street as the car was operating without lights. When he got to a point near Allen street, he claims that Morel shot by him at a high rate of speed. Lynch testified that he was going 45 miles an hour at the time and that Morel went by him without any apparent difficulty while someone from the car shouted at him "Watch out!"

Morel was finally caught up to on Moody street and after being questioned by the officer he was unable to give a registration. He was brought in and the charges preferred against him.

Since that time the other two charges have been brought in connection with another case. After hearing the evidence the court said that it was a case of the testimony of two officers against the man and two companions and that because of other circumstances connected with the case he decided to continue it for sentence for a few days.

John H. Callahan pleaded guilty to illegal keeping and paid a fine of $100. John Callahan, pleaded not guilty to illegal keeping and had his case continued to October 10.

Charles Tessier was found guilty of drunkenness and fined $10. Patrick McGee and Peter Morris were fined $15 each for similar offenses. Each was given a month to pay. Henry T. Molloy, charged with drunkenness, had his case continued to November 2.

For an illegal sale the case of Vasiliadis Telonaris was continued to October 11. For an illegal sale the case of Vasiliadis Telonaris was continued to October 11. For an illegal sale the case of Vasiliadis Telonaris was continued to October 11.

William Brown pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was held over until tomorrow in $500. Charles Rusowicz pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was held over until tomorrow in $500.

For an illegal sale the case of Vasiliadis Telonaris was continued to October 11. For an illegal sale the case of Vasiliadis Telonaris was continued to October 11.

According to the story told by a woman, Strauss, visited her home often to see her son. She claims that he was asked not to come but that he persisted. She said that Strauss came early last night and was ordered away. He came back later wearing a big cartridge belt and a long barreled .38-caliber gun. A note was drawn under the door asking that it be opened. The woman then called in the police.

The defendant, a young man, testified that he had been a soldier most of his life and that he had borrowed the shooting outfit from a Boston friend who wanted him to have some pictures taken with it. He said that he had been an inmate of the Parker Hill hospital in Boston, where disabled soldiers are treated, and that he had been out of the institution only a few months.

The court said that he wanted the matter investigated more thoroughly and that he believed the man must be some official who would take an interest in the young man.

TWO CHILDREN STRUCK BY AUTOS

William Lavalley, a little girl residing at 23 Decatur street, was slightly injured in an automobile accident, which occurred yesterday morning in front of St. Jean Baptiste church in Merrimack.

The little girl was struck by a machine owned by Mrs. Fred Lacey of 282 Pawtucket street and operated by William Wellington Arbo of 511 Bridge street. She was treated at the Lowell Corporation hospital.

Helenia Bonin, a child residing at 759 Merrimack street, was struck by an automobile operated by Charles H. Blowney in Merrimack street near the corner of Allen street Saturday afternoon and sustained slight injuries, which were treated by Dr. G. E. Caluso. It seems that the little girl with another girl started to cross the street, but turned back into the path of the auto.

Hunt Two Men in Double Murder Mystery

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 2.—Detectives investigating the mysterious killing more than two weeks ago of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Miller, redoubled their efforts today to locate two men said to have disappeared from New Brunswick about the time of the shooting. One of the men, said to be a former convict, was declared by investigators to have made the statement in Elizabeth, N. J., that he could not return to New Brunswick, because "he got in a jam there."

Alleged Slayer Held For Grand Jury

BROOKLINE, Oct. 2.—William Morgan, negro janitor, who is charged with fatally shooting Dr. Henry Reynolds, and wounding two other men waived examination before Judge Perkins in district court today, and was ordered held for the grand jury. A motion asking that alienists be appointed to examine Morgan was denied by Judge Perkins who said he did not have authority to consider it.

50,000 Strikers in Bituminous Fields

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 2.—The miners' union is still carrying approximately 50,000 strikers in the bituminous fields, it was learned today. Most of these are in western Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Those in Pennsylvania were largely non-union when the last strike started, while those in West Virginia were union men whom the operators sought to deunionize.

THE CAMPAIGN

Our city affairs are of prime importance to every citizen and the fact that Plan B will be placed on the ballot should not divert attention entirely from the state campaign in which vital issues are involved. For over two years the republicans have been in power and the sum total of their performance is seen in the McCumber-Fordney tariff law which has just been enacted. The defects of that measure in its partiality to the corporate interests have been denounced even by republicans who have revolted against the Old Guard headed by Senator Lodge whose sole specialty in government is a policy of extreme tariff protection. To call such a tariff "protective" is a misnomer because in reality it is a tax as the excess duty is added to the cost of the imported article to the consumer. Consequently the increase in revenue is estimated at $100,000,000 but the increase in the cost of living, it is believed, will cost the country at least four billion dollars a year.

That is the single achievement of which the republican party has to boast and in November the leaders will extol the high tariff as the economic salvation of the country. At first it will stimulate business but as it will operate to cut off our foreign trade, when our storehouses become filled once more, then business will again relapse to dullness. At present the stock of manufactured goods is depleted and from sheer necessity, the factories must resume in order to meet the domestic demand.

For the present, therefore, the tariff argument can be advantageously used for election purposes among those who do not bother looking into economic conditions and judging of the future by present conditions. Senator Lodge as leader of the Old Guard will come to the front defending the party's broken pledges and general failure. The bonus bill, the ship subsidy bill and various others have been either rejected or filibustered.

The nation expects Senator Lodge to be beaten and Col. William A. Gaston, a progressive democrat, elected in his place. That should be the highest aim of the democrats in the present campaign although the entire ticket should be supported from top to bottom.

As a sop to the farmers of the western states, a tariff of 30 cents a bushel has been fixed upon wheat. There is an abundant crop of wheat in this country this year although as a result of crippled railroad transportation it is not being moved very rapidly. There is a great shortage of the wheat crop of Europe and sooner or later the European countries will come into the American market to purchase our wheat. But without gold they will be unable to do so and the high tariff will prevent them from paying in other commodities. There is an instance in which the high tariff defeats its own purpose and there are many of a similar kind, which, however, are not likely to come to light in their pernicious effect for a period of less than six months or a year.

WOMAN FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Miss M. Sylvia Donaldson, the first woman to be nominated for representative from the shoe city of Brockton, has the right idea. Interviewed by a newspaperman, Miss Donaldson said: "Of course, I have been merely nominated, not elected. The other nominee is a man of fine character. I will do all that I honestly can to gain the office. If I am defeated—so be it. I make no promises. I have no platform save that I will try to do what the position requires, that is, I will endeavor truly to represent the people of my district. In no case will I act the part of a feminist or feminist attempting to bring about silly reforms and turning everything topsy-turvy."

The Brockton candidate is supposed to represent the G. O. P. exclusively but she declares she represents all the people of her city regardless of party affiliation, all races and creeds. She makes an excellent beginning in her campaign for election. She admits that she has learned a few of the tricks of politics while connected with the republican committee two years ago. If Miss Donaldson neglects the tricks of politics and follows a course that will offer the voters something new and beneficial for a change, she will probably stand higher with her constituents than if she followed the organized cliques who seek office solely for selfish purposes.

CAMP DEVENS

Twelve hundred men and 50 officers of the 13th U. S. Infantry marched over a nearby state highway in relays, late last week, arriving in Boston and going to the forts in Boston Harbor for winter quarters. They came from Camp Devens, now practically depleted of large bodies of troops. Some people believe this will be the last time that any soldiers will be stationed there for summer training, and they are in the blues about it, as are many local national guard officers and men.

We believe the soldiery of the old Bay State has nothing to fear from the war department changes proposed. While Camp Devens as it is today in its shabby and weather-beaten condition, is only a shadow of its former self, it would be a sad thing to have this summer camping ground turned into a real estate sales agency. Ayer does not need the campground site for home building purposes, but it is hoped that at least a part of it will be preserved from decay and ruin to be used for annual drills or military encampments. The service men have a sort of veneration for old Camp Devens and would be sorry to see it completely dismantled and turned over to the building wreckers.

MR. WOOD'S EXPERIMENT

Mr. William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Co., experiments in pastures green located far apart from fair Shawsheen Village down Andover way, it seems.

Now Bedford newspapermen report that he is the new owner of the greater part of the island of Old Cnityhunk, and has made a new departure there by turning the island into a grazing ground.

Two hundred and fifty sheep have arrived in job lots during the week and were taken across the waters to the island in old Capt. Dimond's ancient schooner. Two trips were required to transfer the animals.

The sheep are to run wild on the island a greater part of the year, but are fed, of course, during the winter months. Mr. Wood is said to desire to find out how quickly a flock of sheep of this particular breed and number will multiply and make such a venture profitable. If he waits a few years and no epidemic of disease wipes out the island's new inhabitants, he may have some novel and interesting tabulations to record in his profit and loss books. The experiment will be watched with interest.

FOR THE NATIONAL GUARD

The war department has just announced a comprehensive program of correspondence courses for the army, available for the National Guard, organized reserves, officers' reserve corps and all classes of citizen soldiers. We note that a goodly number of Bay State soldiers in-the-making have enrolled by securing application blanks from the headquarters of the First corps area. The work begins next week.

As explained by an energetic member of one of Lowell's military organizations, the purpose of this course is announced to be the offering of an opportunity to citizen soldiers to secure systematic and practical training and instruction leading to fit them for active service in their present grade and for promotion to higher rank. The enrollment in the courses is strictly voluntary, therefore sure to bring results that should react beneficially toward higher standards in the voluntary military service that is always prepared to answer Uncle Sam's call in time of danger and strife.

THE WEATHER

It was 126 degrees hot when we recently visited the pyramids in Egypt, but we did not feel it in the least, as the air was so dry. The speaker who said this was Prof. D. S. Noyes of Yale.

You probably have heard some tourist make similar comment about winter in Montreal: "Gets 28 below zero, but you don't mind it as much as zero weather here at home."

With all due respect for "humidity," why is it that severe weather always is easier to stand in some place far off? Imagination seems to have a great deal to do with these conclusions. But there is no doubt that excessive humidity makes hot weather more oppressive but as for the very cold, we cannot speak from experience except that we do know that a person's ears will get frostbitten in a temperature of 25 below just as quickly in the province of Quebec as in any part of New England.

THE POLITICIAN

Among the encomiums showered upon the memory of Samuel Adams, revolutionist, on the occasion of the 200th anniversary of his birth were several that classed him as a fighting "politician"; but the term hardly fits, in view of the rather varied application of the word politician, which in some parts of the country carries a bad odor. But understood in its primitive sense, it might properly be applied to Samuel Adams. Politicians originally were all patriots but unfortunately the genius has deteriorated so that it would hardly be safe nowadays to assume that a man who is a politician is also a patriot. The beauty of Adams' energetic life was, that he was just like the patriotic American of today, who attempts much, fails often, yet goes on the way he believes he should go when the aim is high, the cause just and the end something real and not the proverbial rainbow.

AIRPLANES

Commercial airplanes in the United States are now covering a mileage of 7,666,000 miles a year and carrying 260,000 people and the number is steadily growing.

Flying, as a business proposition for profit, is being carried on in 24 states. Commercial air companies number 125 and are using 1200 different aircraft. Yet the United States is behind England in the application of the airplane to business purposes.

How much is this accomplishment ahead of the opinion you had formed about the flying situation?

There is no indication that it will be necessary for the city to go into the business of selling fuel of any kind. We do not imagine that our city government would be able to supply fuel at a price much less than that charged by the regular dealers.

If the republicans help elect a democratic nominee such as James C. Reilly, Esq., candidate for district attorney, surely the democrats should not fail to do their part.

It seems that the police should have found that murder bullet at city hall. While it is not essential as a piece of evidence, the police should have it among the exhibits in the case.

Many of our streets need repairs to make them safe for travel during the winter.

Is it as easy as ever to secure a revolver with murderous intent?

SEEN AND HEARD

What we wish is the shadow, what we will is the substance, maybe.

There is no compensation for the man up a tree—he lives high.

Too many people don't want to work with their hands.

Some wolves don't even take the trouble to disguise themselves in sheep's clothing.

One can't always tell by the size of the sorrow how much it is going to take to drown it.

A Thought

Our worst misfortunes never happen, and most miseries lie in anticipation.—Balzac.

Church "Stormer"

One Sunday the following announcement was made from the pulpit: "Next Sunday Rev. John Smith will preach there morning and evening after which the church will be closed for six weeks for repairs."

Foot and Feet

A young woman in Washington, recently returned from abroad, was describing her experiences in mountain climbing to a friend in the diplomatic service. "Ah, mees," said the foreign diplomat, "you climb that mountain? Zat was a foot to be proud of!" "Pardon me, count," said the American girl, "feet." "O—h!" exclaimed the count, "so you climb him more than once?"

Didn't See Warren

As it was such an early hour when President Harding passed through the town where Charles lived, the 4-year-old was not awakened to go to the train. He was very much disappointed but after crying a few minutes he asked what the president had talked about. His mother said: "Well, he said that he was glad to see so many out so early." With a fresh burst of tears, Charles said: "What did he say about my not being there?"

Today's Word

Today's word is—conglomerate—It's pronounced—con-glom-er-ate, with accent on the second syllable. It means—that which is gathered into a ball or mass, a collection, a heap—together accumulation. It comes from—Latin "conglomerare," it ravel together. It's used like this—"Critics of the wide-open political primary say recent tests have consisted in submission to the voters of vast conglomerates of names, from which the average man found it hard to make intelligent selections."

Good At Figures

A farmhand rented a field from his boss with the stipulation that the rent was to be one-fourth of the crop raised. At harvest time the farmer was amazed to find that he received nothing at all in exchange for the field. The farmhand handed three loads of produce to his own barn, so the farmer remonstrated. "How's this? Wasn't I to get a fourth of the crop?" he demanded in righteous indignation. "Yes, your wor," candidly rejoined the tenant, "but as it turned out there was only three-fourths."

Line-man on the Job

Not all the romance of modern life is enacted upon the silver screen. It is just around the corner for such as have the wit and courage to recognize it on sight. And strangely enough, many a man or woman who has these qualities works away, day after day, at a humdrum task which appears to offer little in the way of drama until—Well, there's the case of J. C. Campbell, Canton, O., telephone man. He is a round of build, a little stout, with a nose that is just about that of the average trouble shooter—handling and mending breaks in the circuit, restoring service after steel storms in the winter or thunder storms in the summer, untangling the mass of copper when a tree has been blown down across the line. And then, one day, four gunmen attempted to raid the Canton jail and effect the release of "Oklahoma Slim" Stevens, one of their band. Police interfered with the raid and the four bandits took flight in a stolen car. When Motorcycle Policeman John Wise attempted to arrest them for speeding, they forced him, at the point of their guns, to enter their car, and drove to a secluded patch of woods, where they garaged and tied him. Campbell witnessed the kidnapping. Climbing a pole, he cut in with his test and a crowd of onlookers. Then he jumped into his automobile and pursued the gunmen. Several times he stopped, climbed a pole, looked up his set, and notified the police as to the course of the fugitives. This directed by the quick-thinking line-man, the officers overtook the fleeing gunmen and captured them, but only after a pitched battle in which the outlaw, surrounded by police and a posse of citizens, were disabled by revolver fire.

I Will Rent Me a House

I will rent me a house of slate-gray rock Between a hill and a hill, Where the reckless winds go trumpet-ing by.

And may the sun take their fill Of a drunken sky and a stark raving. Just over the window-sill.

The forest will march to my very doors And my doors will be open wide And then I will climb past my slate-gray roof

Far up to the wind-clipped peaks And close to the wind-clipped peaks As the sturdiest fir can stride.

I will watch the dawn come rioting up, The dusk come whispering down, And Spring will hasten in frail, green robes,

And Autumn will linger in brown, And many a miracle wax and wane Undreamed by the shattered town.

I will hear me a house of slate-gray rock From the teeth of the granite seams, Where the clouds roll up in a thick, white mist

And a fox through the doorway streams, I will rock in a house of slate-gray rock With someone to share my dreams.

—By Margaret Tod Hiker in "Contemporary Verse" for September.

The officers of the French army killed during the war reached 18.5 per cent, while 19 per cent of the enlisted men died.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Several near accidents occurred on East Merrimack street last evening as a result of about five obstructions placed on the south side of the street over patches of new paving just laid by the Electric Light Corp. In one or two cases motorists ran upon the "horses" extending across the road before seeing them, and in others the drivers stopped so suddenly that others coming up behind bumped into them. The trouble seems to have been that the electric light visible on the street obstructions, although most of them were under the glare of the white way, that was not sufficient as motorists are not looking for such obstructions. It is stated by one complainant that in one of the small lanterns set on the pavement went out during the evening. A white light for such a purpose is practically useless. The red light alone catches the eye of the motorist in such cases.

Charles F. Fleming keeps right on traveling in his Masonic rounds about the district circuit. He is not that he recently paid an interesting trip to Pepperell, where he was received by St. Paul Lodge of Masons. The officers for 1922-1923 were elected, with Deane Christopher as master. Mr. Christopher is well known in Lowell and vicinity, particularly among the Masonic brethren. The public installation in Pepperell is to occur Oct. 16 at the regular communication. Clarence A. Cook, presiding master of the lodge, presented with a past master's diploma by the district deputy grand master, Mr. Fleming of this city.

The extensions of service lines by the Lowell Electric Light Corporation this fall form quite an important combination when considered "in a lump." Pepprell little fact business is picking up wonderfully this fall. I was kind to know that the young man who told me this, enjoys some of the prosperity. I remember about a year ago when he first started in business on Middlesex street, he was engaged to be married. His friends used to joke with him occasionally, beseeching him to tell them about the prepossessing young lady who was destined to be his bride. A little later, the marriage occurred, was first mentioned in "The Sun's" news column, and after a short honeymoon in the wide awake young man returned to his store, and the "Mrs." accompanied him. Today they are both behind the counter of the Quality Store on Middlesex street and report a prosperous business, a continuance of which is the wish of their many friends.

Lowell motorcycle officers were pleased to learn last week that Sgt. George E. Hayes of Dorchester, known to every "cycle cop" in the state who signed to the Framingham campaign, had just been appointed new instructor of the state police patrol and assigned to the Framingham campground headquarters. Hayes was recently advanced from corporal to his present rank by Colonel Fouts of the motor "army." Hayes is well known as an all-round athlete, he is an overseas veteran, enlisting as a private, and later being commissioned a second lieutenant at Plattsburg. He saw active service in the famous fighting First division in France.

That cubby bear up in the Port Hill park reservation, is beginning to show his winter coat, and it is pretty thick and shaggy already. This fellow, it will be remembered, was sent over from Littleton about two years ago, for the purpose of being a mascot. He is well always. Now the mascot is a pretty good weight, and no wonder! Fine breads, cakes and pastries are the order of the day for this brulin up in the park. The foodstuffs come from one of Lowell's prominent bakeries, and are of course, of the highest quality. In this way, much to the delight of course, when he tackles a frosted cake or a loaf of wheat bread, which he particularly likes.

I am informed that the oyster months are the "radio months." For the oyster months are the ones in which the letter "R" appears, that is, every month except May, June, July and August. That month of course, that the period between September and the following April is the time when the best results are obtained. State, the summer imp of interference, ceases his activity in the fall.

THE COWARDICE OF CONSTANTINE

King's Former Aide Says
Cowardice Responsible for Present Crisis

Major Melas Says Greece is Ruined for More Than a Generation

BY MILTON BRONNER
LONDON, Oct. 2.—"The present Near East tragedy is the sole result of Constantine's grandiose dreams and abject cowardice."

Thus did Major George Melas, Greek aristocrat and author, who was the king's private secretary until 1915, put the blame for the present trouble on the foolish ambitions of a weak monarch.

Major Melas knows Constantine well. They were intimate friends since childhood. But they severed their political ties when Melas joined the Venizelos legions that fought for the Allies.

In an exclusive interview with NEA Service, Major Melas said:

"Encouraged by the Allies, Constantine dreamed of a vast Greek empire. His cowardice was displayed when he refused to recognize the impossibility of conquering Asia Minor and refused to withdraw the army and tell the Greeks the whole truth."

"The ex-king once told me that he realized that some day he would be dethroned by the people. But before that occurred he said that he would put the country to fire and blood."

"He kept his word."

"Greece is ruined for more than a generation. The splendid Hellenism of Asia Minor is destroyed forever."

"Constantine, not only arrogant and obstinate, was obsessed with a desire to be absolute ruler having his own way regardless of the consequences."

"I predicted that he would soon be dethroned and that his pro-German son, Prince George, would succeed."

"There was no chance of any of Constantine's brothers getting the throne. In fact, all his brothers, known throughout all Greece as the 'Kissed American dollars and his wife, the former Mrs. Leeds, haven't guided him in the eyes of the Greeks."

"If the country becomes a republic, Venizelos won't be president. He told me he preferred being premier."

"When Venizelos by wisdom maddest destroyed."

"Venizelos may now be called upon to reconstruct the small country, poor in money resources and with thousands of its citizens killed and wounded."

"The Allies won't escape scot free. Any peace patched up with Kemal will merely be temporary."

"I wish there were some way in which America, without entangling alliances, could immediately intervene and save the lives of the Christian minorities in Asia Minor."

"While the great European powers are jealously watching each other and are talking glibly about exerting for the racial and religious minorities, there will soon be no minorities to protect."

"They will all be massacred."

"Already thousands of Greek soldiers captured during legitimate combat are being sent in groups of 10 and 20 to the Anatolian interior where they will be killed ostensibly by brigands."

"I realize that some of the Greek retreating troops possibly committed atrocities. But they were merely scared and welcome pretext for the Turks doing what they always have done in carrying out their policy of exterminating the Greeks and the Armenians."

"When he feels the time is ripe, Kemal will seek to oust Britain from Mesopotamia and France from Syria."

"When the Turks once more control Constantinople and the Straits, it means that the Germans and the Bolsheviks will be there. Kemal, initially encouraged and financed by Berlin and Moscow, has a treaty with the Russians and close relations with the Germans."

"The Allies will realize the truth when it is too late."

Wild Waves Are Tamed by Top

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus K. Curtis (above) who can ride the roughest seas in comfort due to application of the principle of the gyroscope (inset) to stabilizing their palatial yacht Lyndonia (right).

By NEA Service
CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 2.—A trim 230-foot yacht has taken the roll out of the sea and has made the ocean as smooth as a mill pond.

No more seasickness, broken dishes or missing meals while sailing the bounding main if ship owners own their vessels as Cyrus K. Curtis, the Philadelphia publisher of the Ladies' Home Journal and the Saturday Evening Post, has fitted his "Lyndonia."

This is said to be the most beautiful yacht in American waters—a veritable palace afloat. Its cost is estimated at $1,500,000.

Lounge rooms, smokers, staterooms with private baths, showers, pastry pantry, cold storage and electric lights make living on board as pleasant as stopping at a first class hotel.

But the chief wonder of the yacht lies in a spinning top device which keeps it from rocking even in the stormiest weather.

This gyro-stabilizer invented by Elmer A. Sperry, has proved so successful on the Lyndonia and other yachts that the United States shipping board has ordered one for a vessel in its transatlantic service.

According to Ronald R. Nelson, member of the crew who had charge of this apparatus:

"This stabilizer is just a 'spinning top' harnessed up with a control gyro to govern the action of the wheel. The reaction of this device—the force with which it acts upon the ship, does the work. By the stabilizer's oscillations back and forth, a big wave hitting the vessel on one side will pass under and out to sea on the other side without having imparted to the ship even a sign of a roll."

"With the stabilizer on, the ship needs no helm. No matter how calm or how rough, or which direction the sea is running, the ship would practically steer herself."

The Lyndonia is also equipped with the latest submarine signal device and powerful radio set. It has a cruising radius of 6000 miles.

The gyro-compass is the latest development of the top gyroscope, the familiar spinning top, whose rotation at a speed of 860 revolutions per minute enables it to accomplish marvelous feats in equilibration.

On ship board the constantly spinning gyroscope anticipates the approaching swell and balances the ship to meet it. All other types of ship stabilizers used heretofore have been of inert matter, functioning only after the rolling motion was well under way.

The principle is being used with success in stabilizing airplanes.

PUNG CHOW DEALS
POKER OUT

China has made another contribution to civilization. This time it is a game.

All through China—not only among the Chinese but in American, British, French and other foreign circles—one hears the rattle and click of a lot of strange looking, bamboo-backed, ivory or bone-faced objects somewhat resembling dominoes. As the players about the table become excited, they ejaculate "Pung!" "Chow!" "Mah Jongg!" and the like.

They are playing one of the oldest games of the oldest civilization in the world: "Mah Jongg."

In the far east the game has superceded dominoes, poker and bridge. Everywhere in the clubs, in homes and ten-houses, Mah Jongg is the thing.

America Getting the Craze

Now the craze has hit America. It can be found even at department stores at least in the larger cities. In America they call it "Pung-Chow."

Pung Chow is played by four persons, with "tiles"—as the units are called—136 in number. These are divided into five suits. Three have the same value and run, like cards, from one to nine. The last suit is called "dragons," "dots" and "characters." The other two suits are honor suits and are of higher scoring value. One is named for the four winds—east, west, north and south; the other for the Dragons—red, white and green.

A four-sided "wall," two tiles deep, is built from this wall the players draw 13 pieces, save the banker—the banker is always known as "East Wind"—who gets 14.

By a system of drawing each player strives to build up a winning hand. This may have even more value than in poker.

Counters—little honesticks—take the place of chips and there is a "settling up" after each hand is played—the banker winning or losing double.

You can learn to play it in an evening. Your life time is too short, however, to learn all there is to learn. As a mind-butter and a teacher or concentration it has all else backed off the board.

Easy to Lose One's Head

That's why it was called in the Orient "the game of a thousand intelligences."

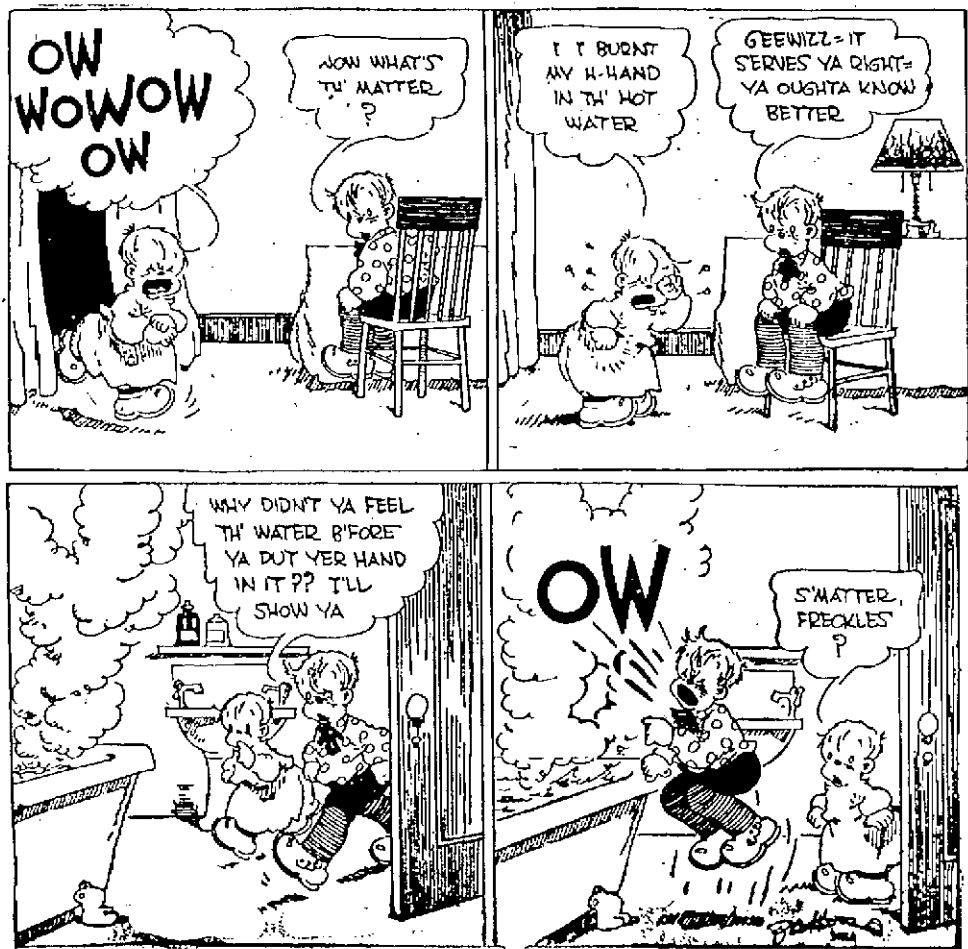

Mah Jongg means "sparrow." For thousands of years it was a game for royalty only. Only emperors, their families and the Mandarin class played. It was then centuries ago called "Pe Ling," meaning "the lark," the "bird of a hundred intelligences." The legend goes that a common person would lose his head if found playing Pe Ling.

It later became popular under the name of "Mah Diao," meaning "matching the pair."

In Papua, the unmarried woman lives in a tree high above the other natives, in a shaky little hut made from bamboo.

Eureka, Cal., claims the distinction of being the farthest western city on the mainland of the United States.

QUEEN'S CAR IS STOLEN

IT HAD TAKEN THE OLD WIZARD 11 YEARS TO MAKE IT

The next thing the Fairy Queen lost was her automobile.

It had been given to her by the Green Wizard, who was an old, old friend of the family.

It wasn't an automobile like you or I have, my dears, or like the neighbors across the street have.

No, it was a very unusual automobile, and it had taken the good old wizard 11 years to make it magical enough to present to the Fairy Queen.

Yes, it was magical. So very magical that it didn't need anyone to run it at all and it could think for itself.

Anyone who owned it could make it do anything he wished by just wishing!

But there was one thing to remember. This wonderful automobile would serve only one master at a time and the last person to turn the shiny handle between the fenders and the thingamabob on the whiffleleg was the only person whose wishes this wonderful machine would obey.

"Magic auto, do not dally. I wish to visit my Aunt Sally."

And whisk! You'd be there! Or!

"Magic auto, please to stop. And let me out at the butcher shop."

And there you

DOUBLE TRAGEDY AT MIDDLEBORO

Bodies of 22-Year-Old Divorcee and Policeman Found in Woman's Home

Bullet Wound in Head of Each—Police Declare it Case of Murder and Suicide

MIDDLEBORO, Oct. 2.—The bodies of Miss Lora Willett, a 22-year-old divorcee, and Charles Haggerty, a special policeman, were found in the Willett home today with a bullet wound in the head of each. A service revolver, which Haggerty had obtained at police headquarters early this morning, was on the floor at his side.

Haggerty went to the home of Miss Willett late this forenoon. Finding her mother out, he sent the young woman's brother on an errand. When the boy returned he found both bodies. Neighbors reported having heard four shots.

The police expressed the opinion that Haggerty, jealous over attention paid to Miss Willett by another man, had shot the girl and then killed himself.

SUPERIOR COURT OPENS

Fall Term of Civil Session of Superior Court Opened Here Today

The fall term of the civil session of the superior court opened in this city this morning with Justice Cox on the bench. At the opening of the session prayer was offered by Rev. N. W. Matthews, of the German Street P. M. church, and the roll of jury was read by Clerk Roger Hurd.

The various cases on the calendar were called by the clerk and assignments were made in numerous cases. The case of Carl P. Hunt vs. George R. Chandler, admr., was ordered nonsuited by the court on motion of Lawyer Howard on the failure of the plaintiff to prosecute an appeal on the decision given some time ago by an auditor. Ten jurors asked to be excused, and after the errors were addressed by the court and adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning.

The list of jurors for the term is as follows:

Peter H. Ackerman, manager; McRae, Arthur J. Brodeur, clerk; Lowell, Ralph W. Buck, clerk; Pepperell, Greely E. Clark, electrician; McRae, James H. Cunniff, checkman; Pepperell, Joseph P. #### LOREE URGES NEW LABOR LAWS

R. R. Head Says Labor Unions Should Be on Par With Other Associations

Notice of Intention to Strike or Lockout Should Be Announced in Advance

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—L. P. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson railroad, speaking today before the Clearing House section at the annual convention of the American Bankers' association, declared that laws should be passed requiring that notice of intention to strike or lockout be made to the authorities at least two weeks before the date fixed for such action.

Mr. Loree declared that if labor wants to retain the right to organize it must assume the responsibilities entailed by that right and should share the restrictions and burdens of organizations of capital.

To this end, he said that new legislation should put labor organizations on a par with all other associations, allowing such organizations to sue and to be sued, requiring them to keep records at the disposal of the authorities and prohibiting them from using their funds for political purposes. Voting on strike and lockout questions, he declared, should be approved by state officers designated to deal with labor disputes.

"It is because I am sympathetic with labor," said Mr. Loree, "that I venture on these suggestions. Labor needs help from the outside. It needs to be rescued from an organization that has become its tyrant and which President Harding says has become ours."

WHAT PETER DID WITH A GENTLE PUSH

Misto Grannen appeared in district court this morning before Judge Thomas J. Enright with his right foot done up in bandages and his only nose nearly buried from sight by another large bandage. To assist him in walking he used a pair of crutches. Facing the bar along side of Misto was Peter Andonian, who appeared to be in his usual health. The men were charged with disturbing the peace and with their cases coming on for trial on October 7.

According to the police Misto acquired his set of crutches and set of bandages in Suffolk street last night as the result of what occurred inside and outside of a coffee house.

The story goes that Misto and Peter, who by the way came from different countries of the world, were having a conversation in the coffee house. According to the owner of the coffee-house establishment the pair became engaged in a wordy combat and he requested the men to get outside.

What occurred on the outside of the building will be told in court when the case comes up. Witnesses report a struggle of some sort between the two men. Misto claims that his nose was nearly bitten off by Peter, while Peter told his counsel that all he did was to give Misto a "gentle push."

PROTEST FROM SOVIET RUSSIA

England, France and Italy Asked to Lift Blockade of Dardanelles

Note Accuses England of "Trying to Control Foreign Seas and Territory"

MOSCOW, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press) The Soviet Russian government has sent a note to England, France and Italy protesting against the blockade of the Dardanelles and insisting upon the removal of all restrictions to the free passage of trading ships through the straits.

The note says the manner in which England is endeavoring to control foreign seas and territory showed indifference to the interests of Russia and the other Black sea states.

"The blockade," it says, "shows that the countries which are not interested in the Black sea trade but which insist upon controlling it by military forces will always be a threat against restoration of the peaceful economic life of the Black sea countries."

"Freedom of the straits," for which Europe is preparing now bloodshed, means only a free hand for the entente to force the blockade at any time under any pretext, thus cutting off the Black sea ports from the world.

"The Russian government stands for freedom of the straits, but for such freedom as will give free passage to trading ships and which will free the straits and the Black sea of all military forces."

"The blockade has no effect upon the economic life of England and the allies. Its only effect is upon the economic life of the Black sea states. The lightness with which the English authorities are managing their indifference toward the interests of the Black sea countries."

"Therefore, the Russian government herewith insists upon removal of the blockade and all limitations interfering with the free passage of trading ships through the Dardanelles which are being enforced by England and the allies."

SPORTED STILETTO ON THE VILLAGE GREEN

A nervous young man who appeared to be of foreign parentage and was dressed in a light-colored tweed suit and brown felt hat to match, walked up and down on the village green in the square in North Billerica at noon today, closely clasping in his left hand what resembled a six-inch stiletto.

The man's appearance and his frightened movements had piqued the curiosity of the villagers, and he was quickly surrounded by a crowd of onlookers. He was holding the stiletto in his left hand and took a seat in the rear of the electric car.

When the car appeared and swung around the square looking for a return trip the stranger quickly slipped the instrument he held into his left-side trousers pocket and took a seat in the rear of the electric.

While waiting for the car in the square, the man attracted much attention from passengers and citizens of the town, many of whom were waiting for the 12:10 p. m. Lowell electric car.

It was first seen hurrying up from the village green, and before the car appeared he had been seen in the square looking for a return trip the stranger quickly slipped the instrument he held into his left-side trousers pocket and took a seat in the rear of the electric.

NEW CHARTER ON BALLOT

Election Board Receives Official Notification—Commissioners Refute Statement

Lowell voters are assured of a chance in the coming state elections of expressing their feeling relative to Plan B form of charter for this city. This was settled definitely this morning when the local elections commission received notification from Frederick W. Cook, secretary of state, that the petition filed and checked here conformed to the law in all respects and that it would be placed on the ballot in accordance with the request of the petition.

As soon as the petition was filed with the local commission it went into a secret session, which lasted for about three days, certified a sufficiency of names, and 200 extra.

Immediately after checking the names, the commission chairman notified the secretary of state as to their action and forwarded a complete statement together with the petition. With the receipt of the letter today it is now assured that the question will appear on the ballot and that all will be given a chance to either accept or reject it.

TOO BUSY TO RECEIVE TAX DIRECTOR TODAY

Today was one of the busiest of the year in the office of the board of assessors at city hall. It was the final day for poll tax abatements for ex-service men and several hundred World war and Spanish war veterans took advantage of it.

Albert B. Sales, director of the division of local taxation, picked today to make one of his usual semi-annual visits to the local office, but when he saw the crowd decided he had better wait until another day. He conferred briefly with the board and said he would visit again when the office returned to normalcy.

SET FIRE TO SAWDUST

A defective electric wire in a shed in the yard of the Griffin Car Co., in Appleton street, set fire to a pile of sawdust at 4:52 o'clock this morning. A telephone alarm was sent in and the firemen succeeded in putting out the fire before any damage was done.

Learned on the battered cannon that came from France, but couldn't rest. He nervously picked his pockets, then wiped his face, which was reddened from apparent running, and finally laid his left hand into one pocket and drew out a long instrument closely resembling pointed steel.

With the instrument in his hand, he stood by the side of the man inquired for "the Lowell car." When the car arrived from the city and turned to swing around the village parkway, the man inquired if that was "the Lowell one." He ran to the car and finally heard it, but as he went up the steps, the weapon back into his pocket.

The little drama was watched closely by more than one frightened passenger. The ladies on the car managed to keep away from the pedestrian while he was hiking in circles about the green.

Turkish Band Thrown Back Across Border After Invading Thrace

Stage All Set for Opening of Armistice Conference at Mudania Tomorrow

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—A band of 800 Turkish irregulars crossed the border of Thrace at Silivri, to the northwest of Silivri (40 miles west of Constantinople) and attacked the Greek outposts. These were being forced to withdraw when reinforcements arrived and the Turks were thrown back across the boundary.

CONFERENCE TOMORROW

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press) An immediate mutual agreement to suspend all movements of troops is expected here today to be the first outcome of the Mudania armistice conference which is to meet tomorrow.

The conference will discuss the occupation of Eastern Thrace by detachments of inter-allied troops during the Greek army's withdrawal.

The expectation here is that the Greek evacuation will begin immediately after the conference, permitting the establishment of Turkish administrative control.

RELAXATION OF FEVERISH TENSION

LONDON, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press) There was a relaxation today of the feverish tension which the critical Near Eastern situation caused in Great Britain. Mustafa Kemal Pasha, reassured by M. Franklin-Bouillon of the allies' good faith, has agreed to an armistice conference and given orders for the suspension of military movements in the Chukuk neutral zone and cessation of the Turkish irregulars' activities in Thrace.

To obviate a tedious and dangerous wait, with the possibility of local incidents between the Turkish and British forces who are within pistol shot of each other on the southern side of the Taurus.

WARM WEATHER BOON TO LOWELL HOUSEHOLDERS

If October weather parallels that of the last week in September, Lowell's winter coal problem—at least as far as anthracite is concerned—may be easily solved.

Lowell Saturday Mayor George H. Brown said he would act under the state law which gives him power to direct the distribution of coal in the city, if an emergency arises, but felt today that a continuance of warm weather would make such an emergency less and less probable.

A cold spell two weeks ago gave reason for the belief that winter weather might come unusually soon and hundreds of householders viewed the prospect with apprehension. It is safe to say that at least 50 per cent of Lowell families and possibly many more than that, have no fuel, although lately many people have turned to soft coal and English coal as a last resort. Satisfactory reports as to the use of soft coal also are heard.

With every continued day of warm weather the chances for deliveries of anthracite coal become brighter, although coal men are unanimous in saying that the maximum supply possible will not equal the demand. The best that can be hoped for is three more weeks of comfortable weather. That will bring this part of the country in close proximity to winter and heat will become a necessity.

LIQUOR SQUAD MAKES BIG RAID IN SUMMER STREET

Officers Winn, Cooney and Moore Make Big Haul—Cooney Climbs Drain Pipe to Find Still—Liquor Found Running Into Rusty Coal Hod—Board of Health Asked to Take Charge of 20 Barrels of Mash

Employing tactics that far outshone anything that the versatile Douglas Fairbanks, Tom Mix, or any other modern picture star ever attempted, three of the huskiest members of the vice and liquor squad raided a house in Summer street this morning, seized and confiscated a big moonshine still and bagged the alleged operator of the illicit brew.

So big was the seizure that the new patrol was unable to cart it all away in one trip and the board of health was requested to dispose of large barrels of mash.

Shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, Sergeants Winn and Officers Frank Moore and Albert Cooney departed from the station in quest of a still they believed to be in operation. Arriving at the Summer street address, the three men jumped out a method of attack. It was lucky they did, for the chances are good that Frank Souza, arrested in connection with the operation of the still and booked for illegal keeping, would have made his getaway.

Officer Moore was to act as outside guard and to him goes the credit of making the arrest.

Sergeant Winn and Officer Cooney acted as the police committee to enter upon the alleged operator. Sergeant Winn, with his 200-odd pounds, mounted the front steps of a two-family dwelling, Officer Cooney, tottering some 200 pounds more, moved in his wake. The sergeant rapped lightly on the door. There was no answer. He rapped again. Still no answer. Officer Cooney then took his turn at rapping. Still no answer.

The officers were sure that they had hit the right house and after peering into the lower windows found nothing to disturb their frame of mind. Unable to get to the second floor through the usual channels, the officers mapped out an attack.

Up the pipe

Officer Cooney noticed a rather frail drain pipe coming from the ceiling to the ground. He said that he was going to climb it. Sgt. Winn gave Cooney a boost to his shoulders and the nimble Cooney started his upward journey. Now and then the pipe groaned and cracked under the officer's weight, but Cooney still stuck to his job.

Soon he arrived at the second story window. He looked inside. There was the still in operation. According to Cooney the second he stuck his head above the window sill Souza made a dive for another window, opened it and disappeared from view. Souza hung for a moment by his fingers and then dropped, to safety, as he thought. But it was not so, for Officer Moore was right on the job and in fact had to move quickly. Officer Souza would have landed upon him. Moore pounced upon Souza and was joined a minute later by Sgt. Winn.

In the meantime Officer Cooney began his search. He was amazed at the stuff he found. There was not a stick of furniture in any of the rooms and the only evidence to support the belief that anyone was living there were draperies on the windows. A few minutes later Cooney was joined by Sgt. Winn and the pair went over the still which was in operation.

Much Mash

About 15 gallons of alleged moonshine were found in addition to the 20 barrels of mash. The still was a large sized one and contained all the latest wrinkles used in the manufacture of illicit liquor. A number of bottles and jars were found and loaded into the patrol.

Instances of what chances drinkers of moonshine will take were cited by the officers who said they found the distilled spirits running from the condenser into a rusty coal hod. From the hod, it is thought, the liquor was poured into other containers.

The police claim that Souza said that it was the first time that he had made "shine." He also said that he was paying $12 per week for the use of the tenement.

Ferry and Barges Collide—Panic Averted

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The ferryboat Brooklyn, carrying 250 passengers from Staten Island to Manhattan, early today, struck two barges in mid-stream in a heavy fog. Quick action by the crew in reassuring the passengers that there was no danger prevented a panic. No one was hurt though several iron pillars on the ferry were broken and a section of the lower deck torn away.

$30,000 in Stocks and Bonds Stolen

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—The theft of stocks and bonds valued at $30,000 from the office of Crocker & Co., a brokerage and banking house, was reported to the police today. When employees of the company reported for work they found that the safe had been opened and its contents sorted. The burglars gained access to the office by use of a key.

DREAMWOLD TREASURES TO GO AT AUCTION

SITUATE, Oct. 2.—The treasures of Dreamwold, the once showy shore estate of Thomas W. Lawson which he has turned over to trustees for sale to satisfy his creditors were being tagged today by appraisers. The preceding preliminary to disposition under the auctioneer's hammer on Oct. 12 and 13, marked the latest chapter in the spectacular career of the man who made his millions in the stock market. Dreamwold, built on speculative profits, is being sold partly because of his speculative losses.

THREW PEBBLES
AT GIRL'S WINDOW

Stanley Grigiel, an 18-year-old youth, started throwing pebbles at a young woman's window in a Rogers street home last night between 11 and 12 o'clock. His act brought the girl's brother from his bed and to a chase which led in the capture of the young man. During a scuffle that followed the young man told Judge Thomas J. Enright in police court this morning that the self-confessed pebble thrower bit him in the hand.

The boy could give no satisfactory reason why he was throwing the pebbles. He said that he watched the girl go into the house and that he threw the pebbles for fun. He said he did not know the girl and had never seen her before.

From the boy's actions and answers the court was led to believe that an investigation regarding the boy's soundness of mind should be started and he held him until tomorrow at $500.

TO SELL TEXTILE PLANT IN NO. CHELMSFORD

Announcements were made today by public advertisement and carnage circularizing by mail that the entire plant and equipment of the Lowell Textile company of North Chelmsford, will be held on Tuesday, October 10, at 10.30 a. m., to the highest bona fide bidder at absolute auction sale, free from all encumbrances. J. E. Conant and Co. are the auctioneers.

The auction sale disposal plan was approved sometime ago. On Sept. 6, last, G. E. King, for the bankruptcy trustees of the concern, notified the auction company that he would authorize it to proceed at once with the sale at public auction to the highest bidder or bidders all of the property, real and personal of said estate.

The textile plant is a late type manufacturing property. The facility with its set of brick buildings, erected new in 1916, comprise the main building, two stores and basement, 219 feet long by 128 feet wide. The annex is 136 ft. long and 51 feet wide. There is a brick engine-boiler room building and a 300-h. p. steam plant.

A spur track runs in from the main railroad line. There is plenty of soft water without cost piped into the buildings and suitable for dyeing and bleaching and for boiler and other domestic uses.

A complete installment of carding, spinning, weaving and bleaching machinery, with other correlative equipment, will be sold in lots to suit the purchaser.

Whipping posts and stools of re-penitence used to stand in every town in England.

ETHEL BARRYMORE AT BEST

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Ethel Barrymore does the greatest work of her career in "Itse Bond." But to watch her in that is like looking upon a giant seeking comfort in a play's house. Every time she gives full play to her emotional strength something in the structure of the play breaks.

Ludwig Lewisohn translated Gerhart Hauptmann's play for its first presentation.

tation in English by Arthur Hopkins. He put the words of the characters into the dialect of certain rural communities of America, but the atmosphere of Europe clings to the characters. "Made in Germany" can still be read between the lines.

First Woman Radio Broadcaster

By NEA Service
VINTON, Ia., Oct. 2.—"Hello, hello, hello—this is radio broadcasting station WIAE, Vinton, Ia."

That's the way Mrs. Robert E. Zimmerman, believed to be the first woman radio broadcaster in the United States, starts her programs, which have been heard as far as Brunswick, Ga., on the south, and Honolou, N. Y., on the east. Women have invaded men's fields in many things, but Mrs. Zimmerman is believed to be the first to show the rest of them what a woman can do in radio.

She is not a professional electrician, to answer the skeptic's first question. She never attended a technical school and is strictly an amateur as far as her experiments and the construction and operation of her radio station are concerned.

She studies the subject, she is an enthusiast, she admits that she accepts advice (on this subject only) from her husband, who is city electrician of Vinton, and judging from the numerous replies she has received from those who have heard station WIAE, she is one of the most successful broadcasters in the middle west.

Hubby's Brother a "Bug"

Mrs. Zimmerman explains her interest in radio as due to a visit from Mr. Zimmerman's brother, Carroll E. Zimmerman, of Taylorville, Ill., in 1920.

"He had been a radio bug for several years then and he got me so interested that we went to work on a set, resulting in an equipment that is now used by many radio receivers. It was a 22-20 vacuum tube set with a 25-watt transmitter which is proving even better."

Entertaining the Kiddles

In addition to the broadcasting apparatus, Mrs. Zimmerman has a receiving set consisting of a Westinghouse reconstructed set with four-stage amplifier and a magnavox.

Mrs. Zimmerman has been broadcasting since June and in that time WIAE has been heard in New York, Illinois, Missouri, Georgia, Ohio and, of course, all over Iowa.

The broadcasting station is in a separate building designed, constructed and equipped for the purpose with operating room, power room and studio. The latter equipped with a piano and a phonograph and designed to insure the correct acoustics.

Programs are broadcasted every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 8 with Yankee dialect, knee-length leather boots with Yankee farmers.

But when Miss Barrymore is on the stage—ah, that's different!

Rose Bernd is a peasant girl. Men pursue her because of her beauty, but she boasts her strength against temptation.

Her bigoted father betroths her to a bookbinder. A married magistrate upon hearing of the betrothal realizes his love for Rose. There is an affair between them.

A roughneck rokel who comes into knowledge of the affair pursues Rose and forces her to his will. In a moment of drunken boastfulness he utters the name of Rose.

He girl's shame is revealed when her father and fiancé seek retraction. She murders her babe.

There's realism in that plot, but the only thing that keeps it from falling into the rut of commonplace sensationalism is the artistry of Miss Barrymore.

So sympathetic is her treatment of Rose that the spectator is moved to a compassion for the character far greater than that earned for her by the playwright.

SULLIVAN APPOINTED AUDITOR

John A. Sullivan, a Boston attorney, has been appointed auditor to hear the evidence in the case of the Engineering Service & Construction Co., vs. the city of Lowell, an action of contract by which the company seeks to recover $100,000 for construction work on the Central bridge. Mr. Sullivan is a former corporation counsel of Boston, former congressman and chairman of the Boston finance commission and at present he is a lecturer on municipal law at the Boston University law school.

It is expected that hearings in the case will be started early this month.

MRS. ROBERT ZIMMERMAN, VINTON, IA., REPORTED TO BE FIRST WOMAN RADIO BROADCASTER. SHE TAKES HUSBAND'S ADVICE—ON RADIO MATTERS AT LEAST. HE'S AN ELECTRICIAN

as many school houses in this state are being equipped with radio receiving apparatus. In this she is again a pioneer, she believes.

Organized Orchestra

Although varied programs are given, Mrs. Zimmerman features a five-piece orchestra, which she has organized and which has proved popular. The instrumentation is piano, saxophone, trombone, cornet and drums, she believing that this carries best over the ether.

Mrs. Zimmerman lived on a farm near Independence, Ia., until her marriage a few years ago. But though on a farm she did not confine her interests to it. During the war she took an active share in Red Cross and community work and was known as one of the most progressive spirits of the community. She is a native of Iowa, born at Independence 26 years ago.

Radio is more than a mere passing fad with her. She is enthusiastically interested in it. She realizes its big future and delights in working out with her husband new features, which will make her station more efficient. She sees no reason why the average woman can not do something like this in addition to her home duties.

English classes at Harvard and during the last four years, full time lecturer for the division of university extension, has been designated by the state to conduct the course.

This course will be open to residents of Lowell and vicinity. A small charge will be made for enrollment and cost of materials. Enrollment may be made at the first meeting, to which all interested persons are invited.

HIGH SCHOOL REVIEW

A new price schedule has been arranged by faculty director of the High School Review, the monthly publication issued by the students of the high school. The new price is 15 cents a single copy, the nine issues of the year for $1.25. Subscribers will be appointed in the various rooms and they will receive a per cent commission on the number of subscriptions they secure. It is planned to build up the circulation of the publication in this way so that every pupil in the high school will be a reader of the Review in all probability the first issue will be received from the press in a short time.

MILK FARMERS WILL MEET NOVEMBER 9

Although the autumn price of milk delivered to customers in Lowell and vicinity has practically been agreed upon as announced in The Sun last week, there are questions of vital importance coming before New England producers that must be settled to the satisfaction of all of the great interests controlling the tremendous industry that promotes the health of mankind.

The Sun is informed that the sixth annual convention of the National Milk Producers' Federation will be held in Springfield, Nov. 9 and 10. Charles W.

Holman, executive secretary, states that this meeting promises to be the "banner meeting in the history of the federation." "It is the first time," he says, "that the federation has held a public meeting in the east, although for several years the New England Milk Producers' association, our member in this part of the country, has been anxious to have the national leaders meet with them. A program of vital interest, both to the producers and consumers, is being prepared."

Among the subjects to be considered are: ways and means of cutting the cost of milk distribution; wider markets for milk products; transportation questions, such as the motor truck versus the railway in hauling milk; the effect of the tariff on the dairy industry; the campaign to rid the country of "olled" milk. This latter will be one of the live features of the convention discussion. It is predicted.

"Olled" milk is also termed for trade purposes "filled" milk. In the middle western sections of the country, the farmers have been fighting attempts to push the sale of so-called "filled" milk, which is offered in the shape of a milk substitute, claimed to have all the virtues of pure milk at less cost. No campaign in the agricultural districts has been hotter than the one conducted by the dairy interests against the manufacturers of the "filled" canned milks and the battle has now been carried to Washington for final decision on the pros and cons of this vital question which is said to threaten the pure milk industry of many sections of the land.

At the Springfield convention, which will find representatives of the milk industry from in and about Lowell attending at least one day's session, the Volgt bill, which passed the national house and is now pending in the senate, will be discussed. Plans will also be set in motion for the passage of uniform state laws in every important dairy and industrial section to protect the public from the alleged "monopolies" of the "filled" milks and other milk substitutes.

A matter of particular interest to

New England and the milk-producing industry right around Lowell and the country districts will be the sessions of the producers devoted to pooling. Within the past years co-operative milk marketing has undergone a notable evolution. Several of the most important milk producers' associations have completely reorganized themselves on the basis of pooling the price received by farmers for their milk. Under the pooling plan, every farmer will receive the same price for his milk as every other farmer within a given district, subject only to differences such as distance from town, grade and country.

The National federation came into being out of a distinct need of the scattered marketing associations having some common medium for keeping in touch with each other. It was initiated at the fourth conference on marketing and farm credits, held in Chicago, in 1916, and was incorporated in 1917.

The federation is not an exclusive institution; the door to membership has always been open to bonafide, co-operative milk marketing associations who are willing to comply with the by-laws and pay the dues assessed them.

The officers and directors of the federation are: Milo D. Campbell, Coldwater, Mich., president; W. F. Schilling, first vice-president; H. W. Inger-sell, second vice-president; F. D. Willis, "treasurer; George Brown, secretary; Charles W. Holman, executive secretary.

The federation is the largest over-head organization of co-operative associations in the United States. Its members, comprising 200,000 farm families, have an aggregate turnover of approximately $300,000,000 of milk annually.

The New England Milk Producers' association is one of the strongest members of the national federation.

BANKING MACHINERY

Meyer Urges Further Development of Federal Reserve System

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The financial policy of the nation should look not only toward further development of the Federal Reserve system, but also the welding into a closer and more harmonious unit the different elements of the banking structure, Eugene Meyer Jr., managing director of the War Finance Corporation, declared in an address here today before the state bank doctee of the American Bankers Association.

Expressing the opinion that the fact that two-thirds of the country's banks, representing 30 per cent of its total banking resources, were outside of the Federal Reserve system, was "undoubtedly responsible in part at least for some of our recent difficulties," Mr. Meyer said:

"We have reached a time when we must decide whether we shall continue the more or less haphazard development of our banking machinery, or whether our action shall proceed along a line based upon a comprehensive view of the needs of the country."

The fact that state banking laws frequently permit practices in which National banks cannot legally engage, Mr. Meyer said, has created a condition of "competition between the two systems which may lead to a gradual weakening of both."

Discussing in this connection the agitation to permit branch banking by national banks as is now permitted in state banks without restrictions in some of the states, Mr. Meyer said this practice "may be good if carried on in a limited way and had it permitted on an extensive scale," but whatever the opinion may be, he said, the question should be decided on its merits and not as the "product of competition" between the two systems.

Agricultural financing Mr. Meyer declared, "must be based first of all upon the fundamental facts of American agriculture, and second upon the existing economic and financial structure of the country. Longer term financing to meet the need of more gradual marketing of agricultural products has been shown to be an 'absolute necessity,' he said.

CATHOLIC NEWS

Yesterday the Feast of the Holy Rosary was observed in all the Catholic churches in the city with appropriate ceremonies. Sermons fitting the occasion were preached in many churches while processions were held at St. Michael's, St. Patrick's and the Immaculate Conception churches.

Next Friday is the first Friday of October and the usual services will be held in all the churches. Confessions will be heard Thursday afternoon and evening.

The Immaculate Conception Sodality received communion in a body at the 7:30 o'clock mass at St. Peter's church yesterday. Rev. Daniel J. Kelsch, P.D., was the celebrant and he was assisted in the giving of communion by Rev. Francis J. Shea. The 11 o'clock mass was celebrated by Rev. Peter T. Luchman, Dr. Kelsch preaching the sermon. October devotions will be held every night in the week during the entire month, Sundays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 7 o'clock, and the other nights at 7:30 o'clock. Confessions will be heard Thursday afternoon and evening for the first Friday.

Masses at 5, 6 and 7 o'clock Friday. St. Michael's church yesterday was celebrated by Rev. Francis J. Mullin. Rev. James F. Lynch, preached the sermon at the late mass. Rev. Fr. Lynch celebrated the early mass. The pastor, Rev. John J. Shaw, read the 8 o'clock mass and Rev. Thomas J. Heagerty celebrated the children's mass in the lower church at the same hour. ## OLD BROADWAY'S NEWEST QUEEN IS SALVATION ARMY "VAMP"

CAPTAIN RIEBA CRAWFORD, "VAMP OF THE SALVATION ARMY"

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A new queen reigns on Broadway.

A new face has captured the public heart and the sophisticated taste of the pleasure seekers of the gay white way.

She is Captain Theba Crawford, "The Vamp of the Salvation Army," they call her around Times square.

Within a stone's throw of 50 theatres and as many dance halls and cabarets where the world's highest priced entertainers hold forth and wealth invites youth, Captain Crawford takes her nightly stand and directs traffic down the straight and narrow road.

She is the only Salvation Army lass who has ever been able to draw no bigger crowd of single gentlemen than a theatre, than a chorus of beauties could inside. She talks to Broadway in its own language.

"I conquered Broadway because I have the soul of Broadway myself," she said, "and it's mind and heart as well. I love Broadway and demand it. It is the greatest street in the world and has the biggest heart."

One of Broadway's Best Showmen
Captain Crawford meets the Broadway beauties on their own ground. She has Irish-blue eyes, a creamy skin, red-gold hair, and a smile that Ziegfeld himself couldn't criticize and a flux of such slender loveliness you are ready to count your calories the rest of your life.

"I keep after him until he does think and everyone else thinks."

Gives Her Audience Jazz Hymns
"Broadway loves its jazz, so I jazz up the hymns a little."

"I keep constantly in motion. Eva Tanguay doesn't use more pep in a performance than I do."

The captain was asked if she received notes from men in her audience. She laughed and admitted she did.

"I get a sheet of letters every day," she said. "Most of them are from men who get more invitations to dinner in a week than I could accept in a year."

"But I accept nothing. I make it a point not to know my audience personally. But I never offend those who extend invitations. I simply tell them all I'm too busy. I am."

Captain Crawford is married. She is the daughter of a colonel in the Salvation Army. In her five years of active service for the organization, she has been devoted to them.

ba's church yesterday. Rev. James M. Somers read the masses at 7:30 and 9 o'clock. October devotions will be observed every morning at the 7 o'clock mass and Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Confirmation will be Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Masses at 5:30 and 7 o'clock. The regular masses on Sunday. Confessions will be heard Thursday, Friday and Saturday, afternoon and evening.

she has spoken in practically every city of any size in the south and west.

Hardly a week goes by that she doesn't have an offer to go into moving pictures. Many Broadway producers have tried to induce her to draw crowds from behind the footlights rather than outside in the street. But no offer has ever tempted her to leave the work she loves.

Meanwhile, Broadwayites don't care whether she stays out in front or goes inside—just so she stays on the street.

"Long Live the Queen," they cry.

URGES ALL TO AID NEW KING

Constantine Pleads That His Successor Former Queen Sophie in Tears on Eve of Departure for Italy

ATHENS, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press) King Constantine in talking with his friends before embarking for Palermo, Italy, where he is to make his home, made a plea that hearty support be given the new king and queen. He added:

"I have had some unhappy days and do not regret this revolution. His consuming ambition, he concluded, was to return later as a simple citizen and visit his son, the new king. This request was submitted to the revolutionary committee, which declined to sign a document empowering his private return."

Former Queen Sophie went untristfully on the shoulder of the new queen, whom she commended to the love and support of all.

One of King Constantine's last acts was to summon a lawyer and initiate legal steps to assure the fortune of the widow of his dead son, King Alexander, who married Madame Manos, a Greek woman not of royal blood and by whom he had a daughter.

King George and Prince Paul, the father of whom, will henceforth be known as the "Dianques," or crown prince, both motored to Oran to bid farewell to their exiled royal parents. The party on board the steamer Paris included 24 persons.

Besides providing an escorting destroyer for the steamer, the revolutionary committee placed £5000 at the disposal of the abdicated king. The passports of the travelers were issued for Italy, Switzerland and Czechoslovakia.

The separation of the parents from their son who remain was described as affecting, by a number of the friends of the royal exiles who witnessed the departure.

Col. Gannias, of the executive committee, informed the correspondent that the decision to deport the members of the royal family was not the result of intervention by the powers because of fear that their lives would be imperilled by remaining in Greece, but was the initiative of the revolutionary committee itself, which took the action in the general interest of the cause.

Assurance that Constantine's abdication from the throne of Greece was sincere and final, was given by his son and successor, King George II, to the members of the revolutionary committee, whom he received in audience on Saturday.

In his talk with the full committee, the king expressed admiration at the manner in which order had been maintained and praised the committee's efforts to save the country. He said the committee would always find him by its side in the task it had set for itself.

If land were divided equally, each Japanese would have one and one-half acres.

Third Generation is Using Syrup Pepsin

No other Laxative can replace Dr. Caldwell's in the confidence of those who use it

THERE are thousands of healthy, robust young men and women who have never in all their lives taken any other laxative for constipation than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Their parents were given it by their parents; the grandparents are using it today. It is the one laxative ideally suited to all the family, safe for the little ones, effective in grownups, so compounded that elderly people, who are constantly forced to take a laxative because the intestinal muscles are weakening, find increased dosage unnecessary. This wonderful constipation remedy has been used continuously for 30 years, and over 10 million bottles are now sold annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. The cost averages but a cent a dose. Every druggist sells it, and under a guarantee to do as claimed or your money will be refunded.

Millions of carefully conducted homes are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientifically-balanced compound of Egyptian pepsin with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. The formula is on the package. As the popularity of this natural vegetable laxative increases, the public discards the harsher physics like calomel, castor in candy form, salt waters and powders. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin empties the bowels more cleanly and without any danger.

Mr. J. B. Bolk of Shaw, Miss, relies on it entirely to keep his children in health, and Mrs. Catherine Connolly of Jersey City, N. J., declares that not only herself but all her neighbors and friends use it and tell others about it. There is scarcely a day that someone in a family does not need it for constipation, flatulency, auto-intoxication, biliousness, intestinal poisoning, headaches, colic and cramps, and to break up fevers and colds.

A New Charm Came to millions in this way

Millions of people have gained new charm through whiter, prettier teeth. You see them everywhere. The reason lies in a new cleaning method. Careful people of some fifty nations are using it today.

Test this method if you do not know it. People all about you have proved its importance. See what it means to you.

Combats the film

One purpose is to combat film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. It absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. Then it forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats film. So, under old methods, these troubles constantly increased, and beautiful teeth were seen less often than today.

Two ways found

To meet this situation, dental science searched for ways to fight film, and two ways were found. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. These two great film combatants are embodied in it. Then dentists the world over began to advise its use.

Other factors

But Pepsodent brings other effects which old ways did not bring. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

Free

One 10-Day Tube
Send the Coupon

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus it gives manifold power to Nature's great tooth-protecting agents. And everywhere this means to people a new dental era.

Watch the man

Men who smoke find that tobacco particularly stains their teeth. Such men see conspicuous results. But most people's teeth, of every age, are clouded more or less.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

That test will give you new ideas of what clean teeth mean. You will want your family to always have them, we believe. Cut out the coupon now.

DEMONSTRATION GREET'S TURK CAVALRY AS IT ENTERS SMYRNA

Are Routed by Greek Forces

The Dardanelles conference has been set for tomorrow at Mudania, on the Sea of Marmora.

Should the meeting be successful, as seems likely, a peace conference may be summoned by the middle of the present month. The Turks desire speedy action, declaring in their reply to the allied joint note that "it is indispensable that Turkey, to the west of the Maritza river, with Adrianople (that is, Eastern Thrace, from the Black sea to a line west of the Maritza) be evacuated immediately and restored urgently to the government of the great national assembly of Turkey."

Papers Praise Harington

The question of the Kemalists' violations of the neutral zones of the straits against the express edicts of the British commander-in-chief, is expected to be thrashed out between Gen. Harington and Ismet Pasha before the actual conference begins tomorrow.

The belief is expressed that if the Turks can be satisfied at tomorrow's meeting regarding the safety of their corollaries in Thrace, peace may be looked for.

The bulk of the press opinion is that Gen. Harington has saved Great Britain from war thus far and there are many analogies of his tact and skill, the hope being added that he will be left a free hand to deal with the situation until it is settled.

PALL OF PESTILENCE HANGS OVER SMYRNA

SMYRNA, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press) Rear Admiral Mark Bristol, commander of the American naval squadron in Turkish waters, is striving through the commanders of the American destroyers here to induce Ismet Pasha to extend the time limit for the evacuation of the refugees from Smyrna, but thus far without success.

To date, 300,000 persons have been evacuated, but a large number still remain. A pall of pestilence hangs over the city, which is rapidly becoming uninhabitable. The American sailors are continuing their splendid work for the relief of the sufferers. Twelve Greek ships under the protection of the American flag left yesterday with thousands of refugees for Mytilene and other islands off Smyrna coast.

FRANCE BELIEVES WORST IS OVER

PARIS, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—French hopes for the peaceful settlement of the Near Eastern crisis are centered upon the Mudania conference. While the government believes the worst is over, there is no desire to be too optimistic pending determination of the two main issues by the generals in consultation—namely, the evacuation of Eastern Thrace by the Greeks and the neutral zones by the Turkish forces.

The French representative at Mudania is expected to support the Turkish proposal for the evacuation of the neutral zones in return for the immediate evacuation of Eastern Thrace by the Greeks. The fear is expressed, however, that Great Britain will not consent to such a plan, especially at a conference at which there is no provision for Greek representation.

Further danger to the success of the conference is seen in the firm decision of the British not to leave the Channel, and should the Turks make this retirement one of their conditions, it is foreseen that an agreement might be impossible. Approval of the Turkish proposal, it is pointed out, would be a substantial concession to the Kemalists as the allied powers in their note made the neutrality of the zones of the straits one of their chief conditions and only promised to "use

Funeral of Admiral Clark Tomorrow

LONG BEACH, Cal., Oct. 2.—The funeral of Rear Admiral Charles E. Clark, who took part in notable engagements of the Spanish-American war, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of his daughter here, with only a few intimate friends and high officers of the Pacific fleet present, it was announced today. Rear Admiral Clark died yesterday, 10 days after he was stricken by heart disease.

Gloucester Steamer Total Loss

BOULLON RETURNS TO CONSTANTINOPLE

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—M. Franklin Bouillon, peace envoy from Athens to Mustafa Kemal Pasha, returned yesterday to Constantinople from Smyrna.

He conferred for several hours with Gen. Pello, French high commissioner in Constantinople, and is understood to have told him that only the most extraordinary efforts on his part prevented Kemal from acting harshly.

He made it clear to the nationalist leader that if war were renewed in the Near East, it might spread to the whole of Europe, and that the responsibility would rest entirely on Kemal.

PERIL OF WAR LESS MENACING

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—With an armistice conference definitely fixed for tomorrow at Mudania, the peril of war between Great Britain and Turkey appeared less menacing today.

Great Britain's recession from the neutral zone caused no little surprise, and disappointment here, but it was generally admitted that this step was the only thing which could have stayed Mustafa Kemal Pasha's hand. It is pointed to as another evidence of England's extraordinary patience and earnest desire to avoid war.

Up to the time of the issuance of Brig. Gen. Harington's ultimatum note, Saturday night, the situation looked exceedingly critical. It is now conceded that his tact and tolerance, coupled with the timely arrival of reinforcements from England, prevented the Turks from striking at Channak.

New difficulties await the British at the armistice conference. It is known that the Kemalists will insist upon the British withdrawal from the Asiatic shores of the Dardanelles, and the immediate evacuation of Thrace by the Greeks.

They will probably also demand the right to cross the straits to pursue the Greeks as well as guarantees against the use of Turkish waters by Greek warships and transports.

It is expected the conference may drag for several days, as the Kemalists doubtless will bargain and haggle over every point.

The British declare they will insist upon occupying the Asiatic banks of the straits even at the peril of failure of the conference. They will also insist on the immediate withdrawal of the Greeks from Thrace, making this conditional upon acceptance of the allied peace proposals. The inviolability of the straits will be stoutly defended.

AMERICANS SAY SITUATION CHAOTIC

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—American relief workers in Athens have sent the following telegram to the headquarters of their organizations here:

"The Mitylene situation is chaotic and impossible to organize. The misery is inconceivable, the death rate is increasing and thousands of additional refugees are arriving.

"About 25,000 refugees are at Piraeus and more are expected. The American committee is caring for thousands of mothers and babies. A local newspaper is raising a million drachmas fund."

Refuge Portfolios

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Mm. Politis and Dromeden have refused the portfolios of foreign minister and finance minister in the new Greek cabinet, according to an Athens dispatch to the Havas agency. They are declared to have given as their reason the desire that the new ministry be without any pronounced party tendency.

K. of C. CARNIVAL

An enthusiastic meeting of those interested in the formation of the Santa Maria table of the K. of C. carnival was held in St. Michael's Guild room yesterday. Plans were discussed for aiding in the undertaking and various suggestions made by the members. The committee have decided to hold a dance at the Orange next Friday evening and it is very probable that a baseball game will be staged on Columbus day between two of the leading teams of the city. In the absence of Mr. George F. Keefe, head of the committee in that district, Mr. John B. Hart presided and many details were discussed. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening in the Guild rooms.

FACED FOUR VIOLATIONS

Autoist Was in Bad in District Court—Liquor and Other Cases

Fred D. J. Morel faced four violations, three of them for motor vehicle laws, when he appeared before Judge Thomas J. Enright in district court this morning. He was intended to try all four complaints together, but as two of them took much time the others were put over until October 11 while the judge reserved his decisions on the cases heard this morning until Saturday.

The four charges were: Operating an auto so as to endanger the life of the public, operating without registration in possession, drunkenness and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

It was on the first two charges that Morel was cited this morning. Officer Daniel Lynch, who was mounted and testified that one night about two weeks ago, he was chasing a car up Merrimack street as the car was operating without lights. When he got to a point near Alken street, he claims that Morel shot by him at a high rate of speed. Lynch testified that he was going 45 miles an hour at the time and that Morel went by him without any apparent difficulty while someone from the car shouted at him "Watch out!"

Morel was finally caught up to on Mead street and after being questioned by the officer he was unable to produce his registration. He was brought in and the charges preferred against him.

Since that time the other two charges have been brought in connection with another case. After hearing the evidence, the court said that it was a case of the testimony of two officers against the man and two complaints and that because of other circumstances connected with the case he decided to continue it for sentence for a few days.

John F. Callahan pleaded guilty to illegal keeping and paid a fine of $100. John Callahan, pleaded not guilty to illegal keeping and had his case continued to October 10.

Charles Tessier was found guilty of drunkenness and fined $10. Patrick McGuire and Peter Morris were fined $10 each for similar offenses. Each was given a month to pay. Henry T. Malley, charged with drunkenness, had his case continued to November 2.

For an illegal sale the case of Vasilius Galoparis was continued to October 11. For illegal keeping, Garda Brownshaw had his case continued also to October 11.

William Brown pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was held over until tomorrow. In $500. Charles Rusiewicz pleaded guilty to drunkenness and $25.00 and battery upon his wife. The court gave him his choice of going to jail for a year or paying the wife $10 a week and keeping away from the house. He chose the latter and got two years probation with a year in jail hanging over him.

FAMILY SCARED BY MAN WHO CARRIED PISTOL

Ralph H. Strauss, who says he lives in Moody street, pleaded guilty to carrying a pistol without a permit when he appeared before Judge Thomas J. Enright in district court this morning. He was arrested last night when a certain family in Tucker street complained that he had threatened them and that they were afraid for their lives. After hearing the evidence Judge Enright continued the case till tomorrow for investigation and held the man in $300.

According to the story told by a woman, Strauss visited her home often to see her son. She claims that he was asked not to come but that he persisted. She said that Strauss came early last night and was ordered away. He came back later wearing a big cartridge belt and a long holster. Strauss was thrust under the door asking that it be opened. The woman then called in the police.

The defendant, a young man, testified that he had been a soldier most of his life and that he had borrowed the shooting pistol from a Boston friend who wanted him to have his picture taken with it. He said that he had been an inmate of the Parker Hill hospital in Boston, where disabled soldiers are treated, and that he had been out of the institution only a few months.

The court said that he wanted the matter investigated more thoroughly and that he believed there must be some officials who would take an interest in the young man.

TWO CHILDREN STRUCK BY AUTOS

Lillian Lavalles, a little girl residing at 23 Decatur street, was slightly injured in an automobile accident, which occurred yesterday morning in front of St. Jean Baptiste church in Merrimack street. The little girl was struck by a machine owned by Mrs. Fred Lacey of 282 Pawtucket street and operated by William Wellington Arbo of 511 Bridge street. She was treated at the Lowell General hospital.

Iselene Bonin, a child residing at 759 Merrimack street, was struck by an automobile operated by Charles H. Slowey in Merrimack street near the corner of Alken street Saturday afternoon and sustained slight injuries, which were treated by Dr. G. E. Caluso. It seems that the little girl with another girl started to cross the street, but turned back into the path of the auto.

Hunt Two Men in Double Murder Mystery

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 2.—Detectives investigating the mysterious killing more than two weeks ago of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Miller, redoubled their efforts today to locate two men said to have disappeared from New Brunswick about the time of the shooting. One of the men, said to be a former convict, was declared by investigators to have made the statement in Elizabeth, N. J., that he could not return to New Brunswick, because "he got in-a jam there."

Alleged Slayer Held For Grand Jury

BROOKLINE, Oct. 2.—William Morgan, negro janitor, who is charged with fatally shooting Dr. Henry Reynolds, and wounding two other men waived examination before Judge Perkins in district court today, and was ordered held for the grand jury. A motion asking that alienists be appointed to examine Morgan was denied by Judge Perkins who said he did not have authority to consider it.

50,000 Strikers in Bituminous Fields

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 2.—The miners' union is still carrying approximately 50,000 strikers in the bituminous fields, it was learned today. Most of these are in western Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Those in Pennsylvania were largely non-union when the last strike started, while those in West Virginia were union men whom the operators sought to demonize.

16 Killed, 34 Injured in Movie Fire

TOKIO, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Sixteen persons were killed and 34 injured in a fire and panic in a motion picture theatre in Aomori, province of Mutsu, Sept. 30, according to word received here today. Most of the dead and injured were children. An economy propaganda film was being shown when the flames burst out.

Mrs. Mabel Francis

"Tanlac helped me back to good health two years ago and I am still feeling fine," recently said Mrs. Mabel I. Francis, highly esteemed resident of 628 S. Linwood Ave., Baltimore, Maryland.

"Before taking the medicine I suffered from a nervous breakdown and was in an awful condition. I scarcely had strength and energy to handle a broom and my housework was drudgery to me.

"The first bottle of Tanlac made such a wonderful improvement in my condition that I was both surprised and delighted. So I stuck to it and a few bottles built me up ten pounds and made me feel as if I had never had a sick day. My health has been fine ever since."

Note—The International Proprietaries Co., Distributors of Tanlac have offices in their offices at Atlanta, Georgia, over fifty thousand signed statements from representative men and women from every state in the Union and every Province of Canada. Many of these are from prominent people in this city and section and have been previously published in this paper.

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Jackie Coogan, the "Million-Dollar Kid"

BY JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Jackie Coogan is a little angel. His mother told me so. He never runs away to go swimming. He wants to go barefoot, but he doesn't because he was told he mustn't. He has had only one fight in all his eight years.

Why, if all the little sonnybuns in America were as dutiful and well-behaved as this "million-dollar prodigy" there wouldn't be one gray hair in his mother's head!

There isn't one gray hair in Mrs. Coogan's head. She has come to New York to sign a new contract for Jackie. And to plan a trip to Europe for Jackie, his father and herself. And to arrange for the exhibition and exploitation of his pictures.

One thing certain Jackie inherited his features from his mother.

But not his genius. "God gave him that," says Mrs. Coogan.

And then she related the following incidents about the best known child in the world. They give insight into his nonconformity, his wit, his keen mentality.

Mrs. Coogan is planning a party for Jackie's eighth birthday anniversary which occurs October 26. Patricia Marks, Alvin J. Lloyd, Marjorie Lester and Frieda Bird are all in bit parts on Jackie. "Tatsy" Marks is nationally known as his sweetheart.

Mrs. Coogan explained that Jackie would sit at the head of the table and that the one he recognized as favorite should sit at the other end of the table.

"Well, since Tatsy's had all the publicity as my sweetheart, sit her at the end of the table," Jackie replied. "But have time left on my left."

Morris Rosenwald, Chicago banker, visited the Coogans home with his little daughter, Caroline. She was accompanied by her governess. The circumstances were most formal.

"Caroline, allow me to present Mrs. Coogan," said her father as they met.

Caroline curtsied. Jackie touched her on the shoulder and started to run, calling back, "Tag! You're it!"

In 18 weeks Jackie completed three years of school work under the tutelage of Mrs. Kora Newell. Before then he could only print his name. Now he writes his signature and has passed fourth year school examinations.

He reads Greek mythology and applies the mythological characters to his playmates. Percentages interest him most in mathematics. He likes to figure out percentages of cost and profits on his pictures, promising to be a great help to his father when he grows up.

Jackie gets $350 for spending money each week. "I normally get it back before the end of the week," says his mother. "He drops the money about the house and yard while he is playing. Sometimes he goes down town to buy a skooter or some new plaything, but other than that he has no need of the money, as he never buys candy or soda water."

At present the youngster is more concerned with carpenter's tools than the screen. Each day he makes a new ladder and paints it with enamel. Charlie Chaplin frequently visits "the kid." There is a deep affection between them.

Says Chaplin of Jackie, "His popularity as an actor may come some day, but he will accomplish something before he dies that will leave his mark in history. It may be something aside from acting. It will probably be something that will not gain recognition or appreciation while he lives, but few geniuses were appreciated while they lived and Jackie is a genius."

"Well, since Tatsy's had all the publicity as my sweetheart, sit her at the end of the table," Jackie replied. "But have time left on my left."

Morris Rosenwald, Chicago banker, visited the Coogans home with his little daughter, Caroline. She was accompanied by her governess. The circumstances were most formal.

"Caroline, allow me to present Mrs. Coogan," said her father as they met.

CHEER LEADER FOR HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL GAMES

Next Wednesday the question as to who shall lead the cheers for Lowell high school football games this fall will be settled when the two upper classes, senior and junior, will cast their ballots in favor of the two boys and two girls who created the best impression at the first game last Saturday.

Such an election is a new method of procedure in the choice of cheer leaders in other years such positions were filled by the choice of the principal. The cheer leaders will be chosen for their magnanimity, their good nature and their ability to work together into a high pitch of enthusiasm that will result in united and strong cheering. The effect of good cheering on the team on the field can not be underrated and has an effect on their playing that often turns the tide of the game. Good cheering is a great aid to good play.

The cheer leaders will be chosen from among the students who have shown themselves to be able to work together into a high pitch of enthusiasm that will result in united and strong cheering. ## FRESHMAN FOOTBALL TEAM CANDIDATES

About 35 freshmen answered Coach McIntire's call last week for candidates for a freshman football team and the coach has been practicing at Spaulding park for the last four or five days. The number of candidates was so large that the coach was able to form three teams and these men are now being coached in the rudiments of the game. The first day or two they were given starting practice, and were instructed in the fundamentals of the game. The coach McIntire is working on the schedule now.

By the Theatre's Own Press Agents.
B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

All-star vaudeville will be flashed at the B. F. Keith theatre this week. Acts that ordinarily fall within the category of headliners will be sprinkled liberally over the bill, and there will be twin features and many standbys, who present a unique blend of humor and music will constitute one of the best bills to be featured, while the Beaumont Sisters & Co. will make up the other.

The Standbys are sure-fire vaudevillians. They have been booked on many an occasion for musical comedy and they have scored hits in such prominent successes as "The Red Mill," "Fanny Fingers" and the George M. Cohan revue. But their stronghold is the two-act day. At a composer-song-writer, pianist and comedian, Fanny is at the piano and contributes her lot 50 per cent to the success of "Pianocapers."

Until recently the Beaumont Sisters were co-stars with Billy B. Van and the names of the sisters and of Van constitute a trade-mark that nobody in the vaudeville field ever trifles with. They are a comedy duo, and are successfully, "A Reminiscence" by Edgar Allan Woolf is their newest offering. It is a humorous vocal routine played to the fullest advantage. All through the act the noted sisters are given free rein to exploit their unique personalities.

Olga Parado, who is acclaimed as America's smallest prima donna, is in a fair way of becoming one of the country's most noted vocalists. She is scarcely out of her teens at the present time, and yet her work is on a very high scale. Her brother, Alan, is a wonderfully good pianist.

Joseph K. Watson, a character comedian, does dialect stories and songs, and he follows a routine of his own which is not approached by any other man on the stage. Watson is sure to receive a wonderful reception. Lewis & Norton, a comedy duo, which is a Spanish court dancers with Viola Victoria as their accompanist. They are a dainty musical offering, will complete this engaging bill.

THE STRAND
"Rich Men's Wives," a picture story that will have a special appeal to girls and mothers, is the chief attraction on The Strand program for the first part of the week. The picture is a production, and the cast includes all stars, headed by Hattie Peters. The question of whether rich men's wives are to be played down or played up is answered in this picture. See it for yourself. The second feature is William Russell in "Strength of the Pines," the third feature is "John in his amusing comedy, 'All Wet'."

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
The greatest of Cecil B. De Mille productions, "Man of the Century," will open a week's engagement at the Merrimack Square theatre today. Thomas Meighan, Leatrice Joy and Lois Wilson are in the leading roles. There will be no increase in prices for this big attraction.

RIALTO THEATRE
"South of Suva," with Mary Miles Minter in the leading role, is the feature attraction of the Rialto theatre beginning this afternoon. "Daring Danger," another De Mille production, will also be shown. The fifth episode of "In the Days of Buffalo Bill," also an Arrow comedy and the Pathe News.

MILK FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN
St. Michael's school in Sixth street, in charge of the Dominican Sisters, has been added to the list of schools where milk is being delivered daily for the nourishment of pupils and teachers. This is the second school to follow out the timely suggestion of Dr. Francis A. Finnegan, director of school hygiene, the Immaculate Conception having started the distribution some time ago.

NEW SYSTEM OF PUNISHMENT FOR LIQUOR VIOLATORS READY

Hampden County Superior Court and District Court Officials Unite to Fight Liquor Violators and Drunken Autoists—System Will Be Watched With Interest By Local Officials and Bar Members

Hampden county has declared war on violators of the liquor and motor vehicle laws. Steps taken there last week following a conference of superior court judges, district court judges and representatives of the district attorney's office indicate there is a whole-hearted movement on foot to make these violators respect the law and to check and stamp out flagrant violations. Middlesex county and other counties in the state may fall in line under the methods as outlined in the middle western part of the state and the bootlegger, speed maniac and his kin may find the way of the transgressor not so easy as in the past.

To Give Support
The biggest step was taken when Justice Webster Thayer of the superior court, after the conference, agreed to accept the district court judges by sentence in superior court in all cases where the convictions are sustained. The aim is to deal fairly with the defendants and at the same time, to relieve the congestion in the upper court.

Such a conference and methods adopted of a like nature would be highly favored if it is thought by district justices of this county, who from time to time, have expressed disfavor at the manner in which persons, convicted in the lower court, have received mitigation from the superior court. On more than one occasion Judge Thayer has made the remark that if he wished the superior court would sustain penalties where convictions were sustained, especially in the cases where liquor violations have been concerned.

Drunken Autoists
The imposition of a fine and also of a suspended sentence in first conviction liquor cases, the former to constitute the active punishment and the latter to act as an incentive for reform, and the establishment of a system of fines and sentences in cases of drunken autoists, according to the gravity of the case, were announced in Justice Thayer's recent address in superior court.

It is planned to establish a greater uniformity of sentences for various offenses in the district courts so that the wide disparity in lower court sentences which now exists, and is a source of appeals, may be eliminated. Not only has Judge Thayer agreed to support the lower court, but he warns that in appeal cases that lack merit, increased sentences will be handed out to discourage the taking of appeals in cases where the chance of a "not guilty" finding is rather slim and to pay for the added expense caused. In connection with these kinds of cases he said that he is getting more and more attempts to use the courts and the district attorney's office as a trading institution, tending strongly to defeat the ends of justice and to hinder a speedy and efficient administration of the criminal law.

Justice Thayer said that the policy relative to the drunken autoists would go into effect at once, and that relative to the liquor cases with the sitting of the court on December 1. The district courts of that county have agreed to put both classes of cases into effect at once.

Hold Conference
The new system was adopted as the result of a conference between Judge Thayer, Judge Wallace K. Ready of the

THE OBSERVANCE OF YOM KIPPUR

The observance of Yom Kippur, Day of Atonement, one of the holiest feasts of the Jewish calendar, which started at sunset last evening, will be brought to a close at sunset this evening. The observance of this feast consists of abstaining from food and drink for 24 hours and also in attending special services in the synagogues.

The local synagogues were kept open all day today and confessional prayers were chanted. Rabbi Elias Wolfson conducted the services at the Howard Street synagogue, while at the McIntyre street synagogue the services were led by Cantor Julius Robinson. Special services will be held in both synagogues at 6 o'clock this evening.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Sunday services were resumed at the First Congregational church last evening and on this occasion a special musical program was given. Kathleen Wright Shepard played "Aria" by Tenebris on the violin. The church quartet, Mrs. Caroline A. Hooper, soprano; Harry A. Hopkins, tenor; Hazel F. Tuttle, contralto and Andrew McCarthy, baritone, sang "Crossing the Bar" with violin obligato, Miss Ella Leons. Gato presiding at the organ. The sermon, based on an outline of Henry van Dyke's story and preached from the text in Mark, 12th chapter, 30th verse, "Thou Shalt Love the Lord with all thy heart," was delivered by the pastor, Percy E. Thomas.

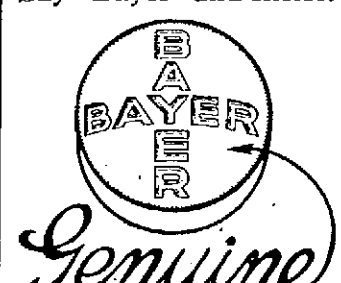

Electric light was first used in America for stage illumination in 1879.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus K. Curtis (above) who can ride the roughest seas in comfort due to application of the principle of the gyro-stabilizer (inset) to stabilizing the yacht Lyndonia (right).

By NEA Service
CAMDEN, Me., Oct. 2.—A trim 230-foot yacht has taken the roll out of the sea and has made the ocean as smooth as a mill pond.

No more seasickness, broken dishes or missing meals while sailing the bounding main if ship owners equip their vessels as Cyrus K. Curtis, the Philadelphia publisher of the Ladies' Home Journal and the Saturday Evening Post, has fitted his "Lyndonia."

This is said to be the most beautiful yacht in American waters—a veritable palace afloat. Its cost is estimated at $1,500,000.

Lounge rooms, smokers, staterooms with private baths, showers, pantry, dining room and electric light plants make living on board as pleasant as stopping at a first class hotel.

But the chief wonder of the yacht lies in a spinning top device which keeps it from rocking even in the stormiest weather.

This gyro-stabilizer invented by Elmer A. Sperry, has proved so successful on the Lyndonia and other yachts that the United States shipping board has ordered one for a vessel in its transatlantic service.

According to Ronald R. Nelson, member of the crew who had charge of this apparatus:

"This stabilizer is just a 'spinning top' harnessed up with a control gyro to govern the action of the wheel. The reaction of this device—the force with which it acts upon the ship, does the work. By the stabilizer's oscillations back and forth, a big wave hitting the vessel on one side will pass under and out to sea on the other side without having imparted to the ship even a sign of a roll."

"With the stabilizer on, the ship needs no helm. No matter how calm or how rough, or which direction the sea is running, the ship would practically steer herself."

The Lyndonia is also equipped with the latest submarine signal device and powerful radio set. It has a cruising radius of 6000 miles.

The gyro-compass in the latest development of the top gyroscopic, the familiar airplane top, whose rotation at a speed of 300 revolutions per minute enables it to accomplish marvelous feats in equilibration.

On ship board the constantly spinning gyroscopic anticipates the approaching swell and balances the ship to meet it. All other types of ship stabilizers used heretofore have been of inert matter, functioning only after the rolling motion was well underway.

The principle is being used with success in stabilizing airplanes.

PUNG CHOW DEALS
POKER OUT

China has made another contribution to civilization. This time it is a game.

All through China—not only among the Chinese but in American, British, French and other foreign circles—one hears the rattle and click of a lot of strange looking, bamboo-backed, ivory or bone-faced objects somewhat resembling dominoes. As the players about the table become excited, they ejaculate "Pung!" "Chow!" "Mah Jongg!" and the like.

They are playing one of the oldest games of the oldest civilization in the world: "Mah Jongg."

In the far east the game has superseded dominoes, poker and bridge. Everywhere in the clubs, in homes and tea-houses, Mah Jongg is the thing.

America Getting the Craze

Now the craze has hit America. It can be found even at department stores at least in the larger cities. In America they call it "Pung-Chow."

Pung Chow is played by four persons, with "tiles"—the units are called—136 in number. These are divided into five suits. Three have the same value and rank, like cards, from one to nine. The suits are called "Ribbon," "Dots" and "Characters." The other two suits are honor suits and are of higher scoring value. One is named for the four winds—east, west, north and south, the other for the Dragons—red, white and green.

A four-sided "wall," two tiles deep, is built from this wall the players draw 13 pieces, save the banker—the banker is always known as "East Wind"—who gets 14.

By a system of drawing each player strives to build up a winning hand. This may have even more value than in poker.

Counters—little honest-looking—take the place of chips and there is a "settling up" after each hand is played—the banker winning or losing double.

You can learn to play it in an evening. Your lifetime is too short, however, to learn all there is to learn. As a mind-boggler and a teacher of concentration it has all else backed off the boards.

Easy to Lose One's Head

That's why it was called in the Orient "the game of a thousand intelligences."

Mah Jongg means "sparrow." For thousands of years it was a game for royalty only. Only emperors, their families and the Mandarin class played.

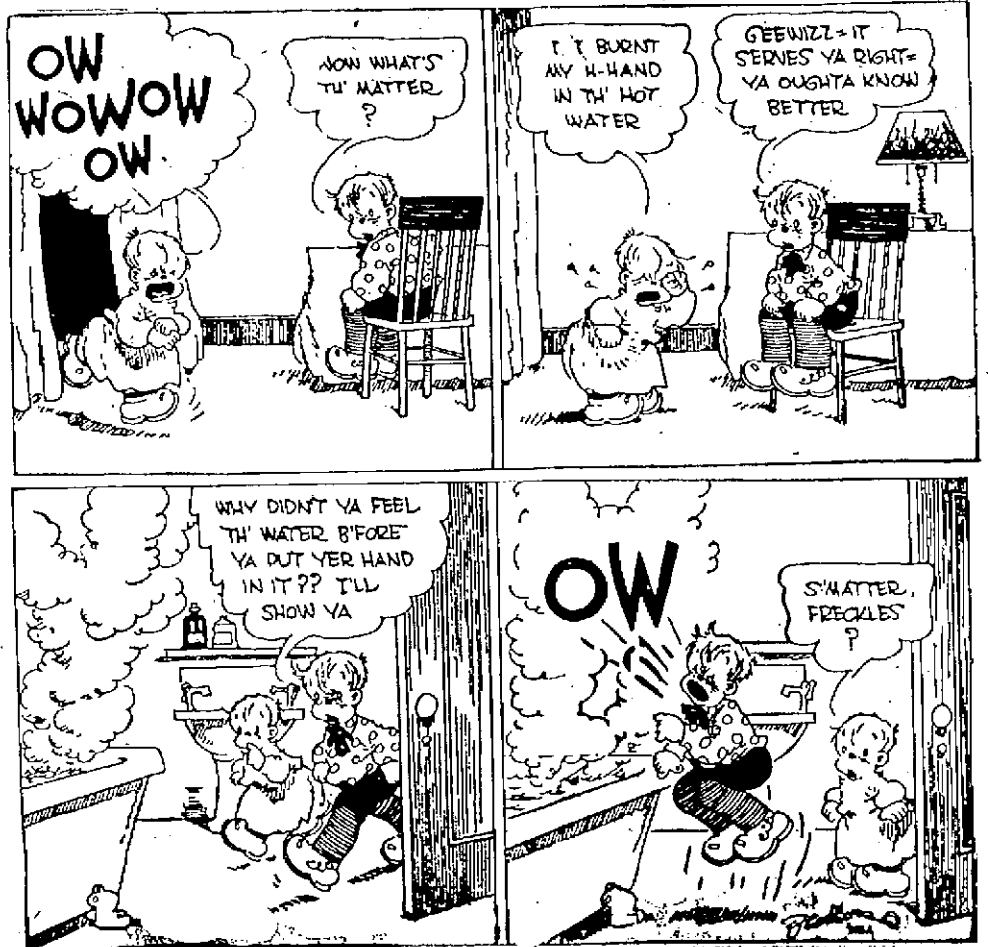

It was then—centuries ago—called "Pe Lin," meaning "the lark," the "bird of a hundred intelligences." The legend goes that a common person would lose his head if found playing Pe Lin.

It later became popular under the name of "Mah Dia," meaning "matching the pair."

In Papua, the unmarried woman lives in a tree high above the other natives, in a shanty little hut made from bamboo.

Eureka, Cal., claims the distinction of being the farthest western city on the mainland of the United States.

THOS. G. ROBBINS DEAD JOINS ONE BIG UNION

Lowell Attorney Passed Away
Yesterday at His Home in Georgia Avenue

Widespread sympathy for the bereaved family followed the announcement of the death on Sunday morning of Thomas G. Robbins, an estimable Lowell attorney, who died after a short illness at his home, 15 Georgia avenue. He was 45 years of age.

Up to the period when he was taken ill, Mr. Robbins had enjoyed excellent health. Recently he had complained of pains about the heart, and was compelled to take to his bed. He gave up his law office in the Appleton Bank building about two weeks ago and retired to his home.

News of the lawyer's demise shocked a large circle of friends in and outside the community. His practice as an attorney had been built up by studious effort and upright dealings after many years of continued and exhaustive effort. He had many intimate acquaintances in many sections of the state, and was particularly popular in legal circles.

The late attorney was a native of Hillsboro, N. H., born in 1874, the son of George A. and Mary (Goodell) Robbins, both settlers of that region. There was another brother and sister in the family. The brother died about six months ago and the sister resides in Savannah, Ga.

Mr. Robbins was educated in the public schools of Hillsboro, later went to Wilbraham academy, a private school, where he prepared himself for college at law, and then upon graduation from the academy entered Boston University Law school, graduating with honors.

In 1895 he was admitted to the state bar and began practice, going into partnership with William W. Duncan, former city solicitor and also a former commissioner under the recent charter. After Mr. Duncan's departure from Lowell, Mr. Robbins conducted the legal offices alone, dealing mostly in realty transactions and matters of an advisory nature. Mr. Robbins was later granted admission to the New Hampshire bar, but did very little business in that state.

Deceased took a great interest in Lowell public affairs, particularly the schools, and for several years prior to 1911 was principal of the evening high school. He never sought political honors.

About a decade ago the attorney married Miss Lilla E. Roche, daughter of T. J. Roche of 1535 Middlesex street, a supervisor of drawing in the public schools. One son, Thomas Robbins, was born of this union.

The Lowell lawyer was a golf enthusiast and a real pioneer of the popular sport in Lowell and vicinity. He was once a member of the Longmeadow club and later became a charter member of the Mt. Pleasant club. Six years ago he joined the Vesper Country club. He was a Mason.

Local Beavers' Union Reported to Have Joined Ben Legere's Outfit

The One Big Union, which was started in Lawrence a few months ago and which is claimed by many to be nothing more than the old I.W.W., has implanted itself in this city and the first organization to join is the Beavers' union, which was formerly affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America and which for many years has had its meeting place in Trades & Labor hall in Central street.

It was learned this morning from official sources, that the union has succeeded in annexing the beavers' union. It will be remembered that a few weeks ago, when the local cotton mills restored the wage cut, Ben Legere, organizer and head of the One Big Union, came here from Lawrence in an endeavor to form branches of his organization in Lowell and it seems he succeeded in annexing the beavers' union.

The beavers' union is composed of about 100 members, a great number of whom were employed at the Massachusetts mills prior to the strike. Others were employed at the Tremont & Suffolk and Appleton mills. It is said that those who were employed at the Massachusetts mills have been unable to get back to work at that mill and that is one of the main reasons for the shift to the One Big Union. It has been reported that the union has been ordered to vacate its quarters in Trades & Labor hall.

About six more strikers were put back to work at the Hamilton mills this morning and others who applied for work were told to come back later. They were given to understand that as soon as vacancies occur they would be given the preference.

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE GREET MRS. M'SWINEY

Report of Summer Activities
Reveals Much Work Done
by League

The Lowell Social Service League, established in this city about eight years ago, has performed many charitable works since its organization, and, while the majority of the cases attended to by its agents have been of a strictly private nature, the report of the summer activities reveals much information and gives the general public some idea of the league's accomplishments. The summer work has not been confined to any one type of problem nor to any particular part of the city. It has been far-reaching, touching young and old in the families of many neighborhoods and all phases of city life. The sick and confined have been cheered many times by baskets of fruits, vegetables and flowers in a most inappreciable way, proving that the value of display and the minimum consolation of those in charge.

The scope of the work throughout the year is unlimited. It is not an uncommon occurrence for the unemployed man or woman to seek and find work through the medium of the league. It has been a constant effort to assist the needy in the acquisition of a non-accidental character. During the summer a widowed mother was offered an opportunity for a vacation by one of her relatives and when it was brought to the attention of the league officials that the woman in question had failed to take the vacation and at the same time maintain her household in proper manner, the league paid the rent for a certain period of time, thus freeing the woman from worry and giving her a better chance to plan for her fall. Another woman was provided for a young woman, who had faithfully done her part to support her family and who needed a play-day to offset the strain.

Special shoes, which cost more than the ordinary pair, but which met the need of orthopedic patients, were furnished to some of the clients, thus enabling one of them to get out of employment, to return to his work and be self-supporting, and in the other case, encouraging a young boy to follow up treatment and get about in a more able manner. Drives and walks for the purpose of raising money for the sick and infirm and transportation to and from out-of-town hospitals provided for those who were unable to secure the required treatment at local hospitals.

Investigation showed that after a long period of irregular employment, in a family where there were many little ones and the mother's health was none too good, some help was needed to get the children properly clothed for school attendance. This the league did. It was also found that the majority of homes were not able to withstand the moral strain which goes with a season of illness. Some of the ties grew lax and either man or woman decided to shirk the responsibility and start out single-handed. After much reasoning and planning together, the wanderer returned, the home resumed a new quarter of the city and new associations, a fresh start was made. It was through the efforts of the league that such conditions were brought about.

LOWELL YOUNG MAN KILLED IN BALTIMORE

William J. Hession, 27, a former well known young man of this city and son of Stephen and Della (Gallagher) Hession of 33 Clark street, died Saturday in Baltimore as the result of an accident, according to word which was received here. No details of the accident were included in the despatch. The young man had been recently employed as an inspector with the Gibbs Brothers Construction Co. of New York and until recently was stationed at New York City.

As a young man Mr. Hession attended St. Patrick's Boys' school from which he was graduated. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, and the Broadway club. He was always prominent as an athlete and was a member of the Alpine basketball five.

During the war he was enlisted in the navy and was advanced to the position of chief petty officer. He made several trips overseas and journeyed to South America on more than one occasion. At the close of the war he was discharged.

Hidden his parents he leaves three sisters, Mrs. Thomas Mack of New South Wales, Mrs. John T. Baxter and Miss Anna Hession, and one brother, John J. Hession. The body will be brought to Lowell by Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

OUTING AT VESPER COUNTRY CLUB

The Vesper Country club in Tyngsboro was the objective this afternoon of several members of the Scheming Circle of the Lowell Athletic club and others who helped make the recent outing a success. The trip was made by automobile and during the afternoon, golf offered the actual diversion. The evening of Oct. 1 will be devoted to the special Columbus day program of the Lowell council.

Big Demonstration in Boston
—Speaker Pleads Revolution's Cause

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney and Miss Linda Mary Kearns got a great reception at Symphony hall last evening, from an audience that filled every seat and every bit of standing room. There must have been at least 4000 present. And this audience responded generously to the call for funds to aid the families of the men who are fighting in the Irish Republican army.

The meeting was held under the auspices of a number of Irish societies that are affiliated with the A.A.I.R., and the name of DeValera was cheered while Miss Kearns asked that the singing cease, as "silence should be observed toward the dead."

Mrs. Linda Mary Kearns recounted her own experiences during the Easter week riots and some of her experiences in British jails. She was a post-office employee in Dublin. Since the treaty of 1921 she has aided the DeValera forces. She insisted that the men from Ireland were British propaganda, as Great Britain controlled the news channels. She declared the so-called treaty was foisted on the Irish people by Michael Collins and Griffith and that in spite of that treaty the Irish people still existed. She made a powerful appeal for the women and children of "the men who are fighting for the republic."

Heaven to Give Her Life
Mrs. MacSwiney was given a tremendous ovation. She told how she had first met Miss Kearns during the attack on the Four Courts and she told of Miss Kearns' remarkable escape from prison, after being given a 10 years' sentence. Mrs. MacSwiney said she didn't approve of fighting, but she "swear" that she would not kill or help anyone else to kill, but in the hope of being privileged to give my life for Ireland." Speaking again of Miss Kearns, she said:

"While my husband was on hunger strike, he wrote to his comrades in Cork that the struggle for Irish liberty must go on 'not in tears but in joy.' Linda carried this out heroically. She defied the English enemy in every possible way. She was continually being put in the punishment cell which was in the bowels of the earth, where there was no light, no sound, and it was all alone, dripping wet and full of rats. She had no books to read and refused to work as a protest against her illegal arrest."

"At last she beat the English enemy. She did not recover from a bad collapse and the British police authorities brought her back to the cell. They became afraid that it would become known that they had murdered her and they transferred her to Mountjoy Jail in Dublin. But as this was, there were some Irish there who took care of her as a mother. She addressed the crowd to make her wonderful escape in December, 1921. She has not yet recovered from her imprisonment which shattered her nerves and reduced her weight by 100 pounds."

"Nevertheless, she has never ceased to hold in the struggle for Irish liberty. She was indefatigable in her attention to the boys in Berry's hotel and also in the hotels in O'Connell street to which the general headquarters was moved on Friday, the 29th. She was under continual and very heavy fire from Sunday until Wednesday at 7."

"Just as she was with The O'Rahilly—the only man killed in the fighting Easter week—she was walking in the lane behind the hotels with Cathal Brugha when he received a fatal wound and was the first to attend him. Other speakers were Patrick P. Hanlons, John F. Hughes and Capt. Thomas O'Connor of the Irish Republican army."

MRS. MacSWINEY COMING TO LOWELL

It is announced that Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, will speak at Associate hall in this city, next Sunday evening, for the benefit of the families of the men who are fighting for the Irish republic. A large audience in Boston last evening. She is highly respected as the widow of the late Lord mayor, who gave his life for Ireland.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS
The annual installation of officers of the Bishop Delany General Assembly, Fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, will be held Thursday evening. The occasion will be honored with the presence of Louis Watson, of Boston, master of the fourth degree in this section. Mr. Watson and his suite will install the new officers. A supper will be served during the evening and final plans for the annual communion Sunday on Oct. 8th and the assembly's participation in the formal Columbus day program will be made.

District Deputy John A. Cavan and his suite will install the newly elected officers of Lowell council, No. 72, Knights of Columbus, at the evening of Oct. 1. A part of the special Columbus day program of the Lowell council.
